Test Ban Near

LONDON (UPI)—High government sources said Monday Britain expected a nuclear test ban treaty draft with the United States and Russia to be completed for signature by mid-summer.

The sources said next month's East-West summit conference might help remove the outstanding differences and clear the way for the final stage of test ban negotiations.

British optimism was said to be based on the assumption that Russia desired a test ban agreement.

One line of British reasoning was that the Soviet might have a theory that a three-power ban would deter the spread of nuclear weapon production in other countries, including Communist China.

Despite the Sino-Russian alliance, Western observers said, the Soviet did not appear eager to see the Chinese equipped with their own atomic weapons.

Herter Hits Nikita

Wrecking Charged To Reds

CHICAGO (UPI)—Secretary of State Christian A. Herter warned yesterday that Soviet threats against West Berlin and "hostile attacks" against the West German government could wreck chances for negotiating East-West arms control agreements.

Herter said there is a "clear relation" between arms control talks and Communist violations or threatened violations of the long-standing East-West agreements on Berlin.

He accused Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and other Soviet leaders of trying "to sow the seeds of suspicion and disunity" among free world allies by attacking the West German government of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer as "militaristic."

Burns Lake Polio Breaks Out Again

Hopes that the recent outbreak of paralytic polio at Burns Lake had run its course were shattered during the weekend when two more victims were admitted to hospital, bringing the local total to 21, the B.C. total to 31.

Stricken were Mrs. Ruth Dick, 26, wife of Rev. Elmer Dick, Burns Lake Mennonite Church minister, and Michael Palmer, 19.

Heston, Signoret, Winters Academy Award Winners

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Charlton Heston, the chariot-racing early Christian of "Ben-Hur," and Simone Signoret, the plump, love-starved wife of "Room at the Top," were named the best star performers of 1959 at the academy awards Monday night.

"Ben-Hur," the most expensive movie ever made, was named best picture of the year and won more awards than any other film in academy history—11.

DIARY OF ANNE FRANK
Shelley Winters, the warmly human Jewish housewife of "The Diary of Anne Frank," and Hugh Griffiths, spade-headed horse-trader of "Ben-Hur," were selected best supporting players at the 32nd annual awards.

Veteran director William Wyler won his third Oscar for "Ben-Hur."

It was a magnificent evening for the chariot epic. The greatest number of Oscars won previously by one film was nine, by "Gigi" last year.

All the major winners won hearty applause from the glittering audience at the Pantages Theatre.

Miss Signoret was also a popular choice. The 39-year-old Parisian received her award from Rock Hudson and said: "You can't imagine what this means to me, being French."

SHELLEY OVERCOME
Miss Winters couldn't contain her joy at winning the big prize, and wept copiously backstage. She said she had no idea she would win.

Griffiths was the only major winner not present for the television awards. The 47-year-old Welshman was in England and his award was accepted by director William Wyler.

A sad note in the "Ben-Hur" victory was the absence of producer Sam Zimbalist, who died after the film was made. The best picture award was accepted by his widow.

"Ben-Hur" won in all but one of the categories in which it was nominated. That one is significant writing. Over the protests of Wyler, the Writers Guild of America gave sole writing credit to Karl Tunberg, though Christopher Fry, Gore Vidal and S. N. Behrman and other helped on the script.

ONLY FRY
Heston acknowledged only Fry among the writers in his acceptance speech.

Best song of the year was "High Hopes," from "A Hole in the Head." Its writers, James Van Heusen and Sammy Cahn, gave the most appreciated acceptance speech of the night: "Thank, and 'You.'"

"Black Orpheus," the bongo-beat product of France's new wave of bright young filmmakers, was named best foreign language film.

No one got greater applause than comedian Bob Hope, who finally got an award after all these years of complaining about the lack of one. He won the Jean Hersholt award for humanitarian service.

POLICE 'BEAT EVERYONE' IN BACK-TO-WORK DRIVE

Another Negro Dies, 10 Hurt As Clubs, Whips, Rifles Used

CAPETOWN (CP)—A Negro was killed and about 10 others injured in widely-separated clashes with police Monday as the South African government launched a campaign to get Negroes back on their jobs.

Reuters reported the man died in Clermont township outside Durban where club-wielding police charged a crowd of 3,000 who refused an order to go back to work. Several Negroes were injured.

In the nearby trouble spot of Nyanga township, a police sergeant opened fire at almost point-blank range into a Negro crowd, wounding five men.

'TROUBLEMAKERS'
The shooting followed action by police with clubs against "troublemakers and open intimidators" in the township. A Negro woman and three men were taken to hospital with head injuries.

Police officials said the sergeant later used his pistol against an unruly crowd of Negroes who threatened to attack.

DRIVE OPENS
The violence came as the government opened a drive starting at dawn to get Negroes to end their stay-home campaign for greater civil rights.

Four air force planes flew over Clermont township and Cato Manor, near Durban, and "bombed" the native settlements with 200,000 pink, green and yellow pamphlets warning the Negroes to maintain order.

BUSES STONED
But in S. J. Smith township outside Durban, none of 5,000 workers reported on the job Monday. Buses were stoned.

The Associated Press reported scores were injured by police clubs and gunfire Monday as authorities cracked down on Capetown area Negroes.

While the authorities declined to give a full account of what went on, it was clear that police had handed out rough treatment to all Negroes they found not working Monday.

RUBBER WHIPS
The editor of a Liberal party magazine, Contact, said he saw police using sjamboks (whips made of strips of rubber) on Negroes near Calderon Square, only a few blocks from the centre of Capetown.

At least 35 were reported wounded by gunfire. Hundreds were clubbed by police batons Monday.

A nurse at a hospital in the Nyanga Negro settlement said there were so many victims of beatings that she ran out of bandages.

EVERYBODY
"Police and army people seem to be beating up everybody," she reported by telephone. Headquarters of the Liberal party, an organization of whites and Negroes favoring conciliation between the races, received a stream of reports on raids throughout the area.

One informant telephoned that police had been beating up "almost every African they can see, and shooting at random."

Church Fails Negroes

CAPETOWN, South Africa (UPI)—Anglican Archbishop Jost de Blank yesterday confirmed reports of growing anti-Christian feeling among Africans.

"I'm not surprised," the archbishop said. "Explorer Stanley Livingstone promised commerce and Christianity to the Africans. They've got commerce, but they've not seen Christianity," he said.

"When I came here 2½ years ago I looked for something which might enable a Christian to believe in apartheid," said the archbishop, an outspoken foe of South Africa's racial policies. "I now know there is no mitigating factor."

JOHANNESBURG (AP)—External Affairs Minister Eric Louw charged Monday critics of his government would hand over South Africa to a "black proletariat" to destroy what the whites have built.

Louw assailed as hypocrisy in urging South Africa to the action of the United Nations Security Council Friday abolish its policy of apartheid or segregation.

Speaking to an audience that included many ambassadors at the opening of the government pavilion at Johannesburg's Union Exposition, Louw declared:

It's the Sin Not the Sum

VANCOUVER (CP)—It's the sin, not the sum, that counts.

Ralph Smilie, 48, was given a three-month jail sentence Monday for passing a bad cheque for $2,522 in payment for a used car.

David Goddard, 29, was jailed three months after admitting he passed a no-account cheque for $14 at a grocery market.

"The climax in the United Nations' incitement and interference in South African affairs was reached last week when the Security Council, in contravention of its own charter, took it upon itself to pass judgment on South Africa."

"One marvels at the blatant hypocrisy of the many countries that lodge complaints against South Africa. He said these included Communist and non-white countries."

"We have a foretaste of what would then happen when we see the ruins of churches, schools and even clinics which were erected for the benefit of the Bantu (Negro) people and burned down last week."

"Then there is also another side to the picture as well. The great bulk of the Bantu are law-abiding, decent people. That is why hundreds are returning to the Bantu reserves."

"When the shock of these happenings of the last two weeks has passed, they will not be so easily swayed by agitators, Bantu or white."

"They will not be cowed by gangster organizations. They must be made to realize that the white man's police force is there to protect them."

30,000 Flooded Acres Drop Mississippi Level

CHICAGO (AP)—The Mississippi River showed signs of relenting temporarily Monday after punching through a levee into rich Illinois farmland. But the Missouri raged on.

By veering into 30,000 acres of bottomland near Meyer, Ill., devastating cropland and routing lives' rock, the Mississippi slowly dropped, officials said, reassuring other communities downstream.

They stressed, however, that the respite might be brief and that another rise could begin after one or two days.

Hundreds of the 2,500 residents in Canton, Mo., fled Sunday, abandoning low-lying homes.

Nazi 'Hanging Judges' Bonn's Insult to World

Murderers of Justice Upholding Law Again

(This is the last in a series of dispatches disclosing the influence of ex-Nazis in Germany today.)

By GORDON DONALDSON

In previous articles I have tried to give a calm survey of the men behind West Germany today. I can stay calm no longer.

The presence of Nazi hanging judges in the Bonn republic today is a shrieking affront to the civilized world and a crashing damnation of the government that permits it.

Last year the East Germans published a list of 1,000 judges and prosecutors of Nazi special and military courts now judging and prosecuting again in West German courts.

These were no ordinary judges. They were the backbone of Hitler's legal system. Their job was to kill off political opponents.

There was no ordinary justice—it was death for listening to the wrong broadcast, death for telling the wrong joke, death for helping a Jew or giving a crust to a starving prisoner.

They dealt death from a pinnacle of legal impudence with their black robes and black hats and black hearts. They were Nazi jurists building Nazi law—for Nazi crimes were based on Nazi law. They wallowed in legality as they murdered justice.

Now these walking, grinning guillotines are back upholding Bonn's laws. One of them was, until he got out last September, one of the 12 supreme justices of the republic.

Best for Communists

These men have been exposed by the German Communists, who used the records of the Nazi ministry of justice. This is Communist propaganda? Certainly it is. Communist propaganda—it is the best propaganda the Communists have been handed in years.

But it is true. No blanket denial has been put out by Bonn. The West German attorney-general, Dr. Max Guede, has admitted 100 cases, anyway, are genuine. He said he was "shocked" by some of the sentences passed by his judges in the old days.

The influential pro-government paper Die Zeit has declared that if only one-tenth of the East Berlin list is accurate, these judges "compromise the remaining 11,900 in the West German state and completely deny the concepts of right and justice."

Already six judges have been eased out of office. Fifteen more are being investigated. One—Dr. Otto Schweinsberger—public prosecutor in Frankfurt, was suspended.

In 1942, according to the Berlin records, Schweinsberger tried a soldier called Weisheit for "illegally" murdering 75 Jews. He wrote the judge, advocate of the 40th Panzer Corps, announcing he would acquit Weisheit.

If the other judges disagreed with him he would consider their verdict contrary to the principles of National Socialism and would report the case to Heinrich Himmler. His oath as an official and member of the Nazi party compelled him to take this step, said Dr. Schweinsberger.

Death for Six Cigarettes

Take the case of Ludwig Bayer, a Pole from the Posen district. He gave six cigarettes to an escaping British prisoner of war and several pieces of bread to two Russians in 1941. For this he was publicly hanged in front of his house.

Two of his three judges now run provincial courts in West Germany, the third is senior public prosecutor in West Berlin.

Father Karl Kratina was on his way back from a funeral in Prague when he told the sexton that he had heard through a relative Jews were being terribly maltreated by the Gestapo in Theresienstadt camp.

When the priest was arrested notes were found in his wallet referring to jokes about Hitler. Then Kratina dared to read a mass for a Czech executed by order of the people's court.

Father Kratina was sentenced to death. His prosecutor is now a West German judge. One of today's provincial court councillors in Stuttgart sentenced a Polish farmer to death for listening to illegal broadcasts.

Today's public prosecutor in Duesseldorf, Dr. Ludwig, frequently supervised executions of Czechs condemned for opposition to the Nazis. One of his reports described the guillotining of a man and wife who sheltered a Czech major.

Dr. Jaeger, the senior prosecutor (recently promoted) in Schleswig, was a people's court prosecutor in Vienna. Among his victories was the case against actor Walther Ruthe, condemned to death for defeatist talk.

Goebbels Should Hide

He said in 1943 that the war would soon be over. The charge sheet added: "He also expressed the opinion that Dr. Goebbels could not show his face in Berlin, otherwise he would be beaten to death."

Another was the death sentence against truck driver Oskar Billion. In listening to German radio news he questioned the truth of German reports, especially of Wehrmacht reports.

Jaeger demanded (and got) the execution of a German Red Cross nurse for telling a companion it was a pity the 1944 bomb plot against Hitler hadn't succeeded. Jaeger later turned down a sister's request for the nurse's body.

The career of Dr. Ernst Kanter in Hitler's military courts began in 1938. By 1939 he was a member of the second senate of the supreme military court.

In 1943 he became supreme military judge of Nazi-occupied Denmark. Under his rule several dozen German soldiers were shot, 103 Danes officially executed and many others shot without trial.

Until Sept. 30, 1959, when he retired voluntarily to claim his pension, Kanter was one of the 12 senate presidents of the federal supreme court at Karlsruhe. His senate dealt with political cases. These are a few examples from

'Life Will Defeat You' Nikita Tells Adenauer

MOSCOW (UPI)—Summing up his "highly useful" visit to France in a Russia-wide telecast, Nikita Khrushchev talked mostly about West Germany—urging friendly relations but retracting none of his attacks on German militarism.

He accused Chancellor Adenauer of visiting the U.S. and Japan to "mobilize the cold war champions" and said if Adenauer didn't change his policy, "life will defeat him."

Tunnel Workers 'Afraid for Jobs'

TORONTO (CP)—A union official said Monday a number of sewer and tunnel jobs, many of them in outlying areas of Ontario, are unsafe because immigrant workers are too frightened to complain.

Jerry Gallagher, secretary-treasurer of Local 813 of the International Hod Carriers, Building and Common Laborers' Union, said the unsafe jobs are in areas seldom visited by labor department inspectors.

SO BADLY "The men need the jobs so badly that they keep working in danger rather than complain against the boss," he said.

His remarks followed a report by the jury of an inquest into deaths of five Italian workmen March 17 in a tunnel project here.

The jury ruled main reasons were failures to carry out safety regulations governing work under compressed air. Meanwhile, the Ontario department of labor drew sharp condemnation in the Ontario legislature over the case.

B.C.'s Labor Code

EARNEST consideration should be given to Mr. E. E. Pearlman's recommendations for the complete overhauling of British Columbia's labor disputes settlement procedures. Mr. Pearlman is one of the province's leading authorities on the subject, and has a breadth of personal experience as a lawyer and as a negotiator in industrial disagreements fully qualifying him to offer advice as to how the B.C. labor code could be improved.

First and foremost he recommends the establishment of labor courts and arbitration boards to achieve a degree of finality in the composition of disputes not attainable under the existing procedures. The impotence in some circumstances of the B.C. conciliation and arbitration (so-called) processes has been exemplified times without number. Mr. Pearlman would have arbitration boards vested with sufficient authority to end disputes a great deal more expeditiously than is possible now.

He would also have vital services which cannot be interrupted without serious consequences to the community brought under compulsory arbitration where disputes fail to yield to the preliminary processes. In this category would be policemen, firemen, sanitation and public health staffs, teachers and all those responsible for the continuous operation of essential services. Private operations would not be subject to this compulsion, but the facilities of arbitration would be available to them on request.

Another important recommendation is that tribunals responsible for the settlement of labor differences should be headed by judges. This is so eminently sound that it should need little emphasis. If it is deemed proper for civil suits, involving possibly only two persons and relatively small amounts of money, to be heard by permanently appointed judges trained in the law, surely it is much more important that disputes involving the wage scales of hundreds or thousands of employees, the stability of large industries or the tax revenues of public bodies should be taken before impartial judges with the training necessary for the rendering of wise decisions.

Commission Reports

IN a lengthy report tabled yesterday in the House of Commons, Ottawa, the royal commission on copyright, patents and industrial design gave its recommendations on Canadian patent law, the last of three studies assigned to it some six years ago. Of a number of express recommendations presented, two are likely to attract considerable attention. One urges that where patent has been granted in the protection of drugs and similar specialties, the patent holder should not be permitted to withhold licence to manufacture under the terms of the patent, and that price-fixing on any leasing of rights should be outlawed. This aims at the recent situation where the sale of some drug specialties has come under fire for asserted profiteering.

There is little doubt that the present law puts the patent holder in a position of considerable power with regard to the manufacture and use of his product. If that extends to actual price-fixing as the commission implies, there certainly should be a remedy for such a state of affairs. Similarly, prohibition by withholding patent rights from legitimate development might well have been part of the means used to keep some specialties in the past in the rare, and therefore high-priced, brackets. This recommendation would hit at the root of the trouble, and could be very effective if uniformly applied.

The other recommendation which challenges attention is one suggesting that Canada revoke provision in existing patent law requiring proof of an applicant's initial and prior discovery of an invention that is to be patented. The commission suggests that the patent should go to the first individual to apply with a view to the application of the invention concerned. It points out that this is the practice in several other countries. With due respect to the inquiring panel, this change is one which would seem to require the closest of licensing safeguards. The record of inventors is that they struggle long before they receive any attention, and often have to sell their invention outright before it will be taken up commercially. To hold that patent protection can leap-frog the inventor is going very far.

Weather Monitoring

ELECTRONIC pictures of the hidden side of the moon, and now of cloud formations over a considerable section of the earth no doubt are harbingers of times when similar means can be used to promulgate world-wide weather forecasts and other things. The transmitted pictures from the new American satellite do not show detail on the earth's surface, but they give a reasonably clear view of gathering storms in the atmosphere. Meteorologists have said that if, instead of one satellite making its rounds, there were 12 satellites evenly spaced to cover field their information would be invaluable.

Gains in meteorology have been impressive during the last decade. A world-wide weather chart is one of its aims today. It may be some time before that achievement can be realized, but the benefits then should be impressive. Advances to shipping at sea and planes in the air, the outlook for field crops and harvests in any section of the globe, accurate warning of hurricanes and other gales which create havoc on land and sea come within the scope of what meteorologists would be able to furnish if they have a complete report of what is happening in the upper air over most of the globe. It might be an expensive way to get the information, but there could be little doubt as to its value.

There are, of course, other possibilities with high-view surveillance of the surface of the earth by this means, some disturbing and others not so. What one trusts will never, never come is a wandering satellite which broadcasts commercials 24 hours a day, 365 days in the year. That would be the last straw.

Interpreting the News

Eight Years In Dissent

By JOSEPH MACSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SOUTH AFRICA was one of the countries that took part in forming the United Nations in 1946, but it has been in hot water with the world body from the beginning.

Although the current uproar in South Africa—resulting in a special meeting of the UN Security Council—arose specifically from the pass system, there are several aspects of the problem grouped under the country's apartheid racial separation policies.

The language of the Afro-Asian complaint against the union now is much the same as it was in 1952.

In that year 13 countries introduced a UN resolution holding that South Africa's racial conflict was creating a dangerous and explosive situation which constituted a threat to international peace and a violation of human rights.

This wording expresses precisely the views of the 29 Afro-Asian nations which called for the special Security Council meeting following the killing of South African natives March 21.

The seventh General Assembly in 1952 passed two resolutions, one of which established a three-man commission to study the apartheid situation.

The other set out principles and said that in a multi-racial society, harmony and respect for human rights and freedoms are best assured when patterns of legislation and practice are directed toward equality.

South Africa made it clear that it regarded both resolutions as contrary to the UN charter, which precludes the UN from intervening "in matters which are essentially within the domestic jurisdiction of any state." It refused to co-operate with the commission.

In prophetic words, the commission said apartheid could result in any solution to South Africa's problems being excluded, leaving violence as "the only way out." It saw a danger that agitation and subversion would find fertile ground as the years passed.

South Africa continued to resist UN intervention in its internal affairs, and took drastic action in 1956, withdrawing its permanent representative from the UN and leaving its affairs in the hands of a lesser figure. Each year since then the UN General Assembly has criticized apartheid, with South Africa boycotting each debate.

Thinking Aloud

of shoes—and ships—and sailing wax-of cabbages and kings.

By TOM TAYLOR

MR. ANEURIN BEVAN, the most scintillating labor politician of the British scene, is convalescing from a recent illness and he was asked the other day if he intended to spend the time writing his memoirs. The answer was no. Mr. Bevan disapproves of people in public life writing their memoirs. "If they tell the truth it is hurtful," he said, "but usually they do not tell the truth." Certainly memoirs can create quite a to-do, and as to their accuracy one is often puzzled. The verity of military memoirs, for instance, would floor a Solomon. Truth is not a simple thing, you see—it may depend on how one looks at things—and in bulk military reminiscence of the postwar years has been very contradictory.

Mr. Bevan was not thinking about military autobiographies, however, but rather those of political flavor. His disconcerting conclusion about these—"that most of them are entirely unreliable"—will scarcely endear him to recent authors of this ilk, nor will it reassure any of his own colleagues who may contemplate putting their life stories into print.

Especially since he caps his verdict by saying "I would rather take my fiction straight." In a sense a book of memoirs is a form of vanity, in that it presupposes an audience interested in the author concerned. When the autobiography is that of a public man, however, the policies that influence public affairs are involved. Political memoirs and biography become part of the national archives.

It would be expecting the impossible to hope that these could be wholly objective and impartial. The author is bound to present his side of any issue involved in the light of his own views about it; he might even be, as T. E. Lawrence said of his Arabian memoirs, "fighting on his own madden." Even at best truth may be relative and only the truth as the writer sees it.

No one is going to portray himself unfavorably, and so the corrective to any autobiography of political importance must be found in reading an opposite version of the story that is told. Assuming, that is, that a happy mean can be struck by this means, which is not always certain.

If there comes a day when Mr. Diefenbaker and Mr. Pearson write their memoirs neither will paint any waris as his own. They wouldn't be human if they did. Even Mr. Bevan's memoirs, happening that he changes his mind some day, will not be free from the judgment he passes on other works. One doubts that memoirs are exactly fictional, however.

Mr. Bevan is recovering, fortunately, from a major operation, and spends his time watching television and reading newspapers. The former he finds depressing and of the latter he says "it is my one form of continuous fiction."

One cannot help wondering if when newspapers quote him verbatim he considers his remarks to be fictional. He may simply have been in a fictional mood, of course; perhaps the whole interview on which the foregoing is based was a piece of fiction itself.

Reports from Ottawa

MAYBE you're familiar with a radio news feature that starts like this:

"Time out . . .
"Time out for the little man . . ."

Usually it's about human interest items in the day's news—a taxi driver who delivers a baby, or a cop who tickets the mayor's car.

Well, here in Ottawa the other day, during hearings of the royal commission on transportation, it was time out for the little man. And the little man came through beautifully.

In this case the little man was an organization you've probably never heard of before, called the Canadian Granite Industries Association. It represents an industry that's not very important—except to the 1,500 workers it employs. But it's almost 100 per cent Canadian-owned, and it traces its history back to early colonial days.

The gist of what the granite men told the royal commission is that government boards and regulations are making it so that they can hardly stay in business. They said that thanks to the unrealistic and unfair freight rate fixing policies of the Board of Transport Commissioners, it now costs 186 per cent more to ship a carload of granite than it did in 1948. Granite prices haven't been increased in 10 years, they asserted, yet American granite is coming in and taking western business away from Ontario and Quebec producers—because of high Canadian rail costs.

The new Monarch Life building in Winnipeg, and the new law courts building in Regina, are being built with U.S. granite. If that keeps up, the granite men said, soon there won't be a ton of eastern Canadian granite sold west of the Lakehead. And even their Ontario market is threatened by overseas granite sailing up the seaway and getting special low rail freight rates from ports of entry to destination.

They want freight rates determined on a commodity basis instead of across-the-board, so that the economic consequences on individual industries could be taken into account. And they want the government to subsidize the railways so that transportation costs that work excessive hardship on an industry can be lightened.

This little man of commerce says he could compete on the West Coast by shipping his granite via the Panama Canal at $30 a ton. But the government won't let him unless he ships in Canadian bottoms.

However, the Canadian merchant marine is practically non-existent. Only three Canadian ships, owned by ALCAN, sail from Montreal to Vancouver each year. The Shipping Act bars foreign ships from carrying cargo between Canadian ports.

You'd think that at least in winter, when the St. Lawrence is sealed by ice, the granite people would be permitted to truck their stone to New York City and put it on American ships bound for Vancouver. But that also is against Canadian law.

It is a rare law or regulation that is equally fair to everybody. Usually, there's some fortunate little man pinched between a government decree and special circumstances. That is the position of the granite industry, and at the hearings of the royal commission the granite men pleaded as loudly as they could for some of that economic justice, some of that Conservative consideration for the little man in business, that the administration has promised in election

I hope for the nation's sake that their plea is heeded. For unless the colossus of government can stoop on occasion to help the little man, government "for the people" is in peril.

Crooks Cost Money

By GREGORY CLARK

IN the past we never thought of criminals as financially obnoxious. We thought of them as wicked, lawless, vicious. About the only time we thought of them in terms of cash was when we happened to be the victims of theft or burglary.

But recently those interested in prison reform have been cautiously advancing, as one reason for more liberal parole and probation of criminals, the growing expense of keeping people in prison. One speaker lately mentioned that it costs between $5,000 and $6,000 a year to keep a man in the penitentiary, and the cost is rising. Thus, when we sentence a man to 20 years in the pen, we can't say that is going to cost us $100,000. By 1970 the cost will have risen, and it may mean we have let ourselves in for $150,000 in soaking that one-armed thug, bank robber manslaughterer to 20 years. Multiply this by a few thousand inmates in our penitentiaries and prisons, and we get away up in the millions, per annum.

Our abhorrence of the criminal in the past has been on moral grounds. We may be in the process of shifting our attitude to a more practical basis. Once we get it into our heads that crooks are costing us hard cash dollars, they are going to get less public sympathy, not more. It is us, not them, that crime does not pay.

With the Classics

Lift not the painted veil which those who live,
Call Life: though unreal shapes be pictured there,
And it but mimic all we would believe
With colors idly spread—behind,
Lurk Fear
And Hope, twin Destinies; who ever weave
Their shadows, o'er the chasm, sightless and drear.
I knew one who lifted it—he sought,
For his lost heart was tender, things to love.
But found them not, alas! nor was there aught
The world contains, the which he could approve.

Cautious Optimism on Test Ban

By MARQUIS CHILDS

WHILE a rear-guard action by the die-hard opponents of any agreement of any kind with the Soviets cannot be discounted, there is a current of cautious optimism in this capital that a nuclear test ban with a verifiable inspection system will be approved.

It will not finally be nailed down until the heads of government meet at the summit in Paris in mid-May. An examination of the transcript of the exchanges that have gone on within the nuclear testing conference at Geneva since the Soviets came forward with their latest proposal makes this clear.

In that proposal they agreed to ban all tests except those below a threshold of an earthquake reading of 4.5 (19,000 tons of TNT equivalent) and with this would go a voluntary moratorium on the smaller explosions while a joint scientific force worked to perfect a detection system. To many who have followed the long and complex negotiations this seemed a big step toward the American position that there can be no agreement which leaves any area free of verifiable inspection.

If a compromise can be worked out, and Prime Minister Macmillan's presence is an encouraging portent, another area of major disagreement will remain. This is on the number of on-site inspections to be permitted on the territory of each nation.

The record from Geneva shows that chief delegate Semyon Tsarapkin, when pressed on this matter, said with great emphasis that the Soviet delegation meant to adhere firmly to their position that this must be a political decision. In other words, the number of on-site inspections is not to be determined by the scientists. The decision will be made by Premier Khrushchev himself at the summit.

But those who favor an agreement interpret this as a face-saving device for the Russians. Having in effect agreed to a scientific determination of the threshold below which explosions cannot be detected with accuracy, they must stand firm on the right of a political determination in the other disputed area. There is confidence here that at the summit Khrushchev will, after a great deal of haggling, approve 20 inspections, which is the Western figure.

LEADER of the implacable opposition is Chairman John McCone of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission. He has never wavered in his determination to see testing resumed. Again and again in conferences at the State Department he has dramatically invoked the Chinese-Russian Communist hordes who will sweep away Western civilization unless they are deterred by troops equipped with tactical atomic weapons for use in limited nuclear war.

Only through more testing, he has argued with his massive assurance, can such weapons be achieved. Once or twice in these heated conferences it has been pointed out that the Russians could also resume nuclear testing and development and equip the Communist hordes with small nuclear weapons.

That would restore the advantage to numbers and invalidate the McCone argument. The distinguished physicist, Hans Bethe, who favors a compromise agreement, makes a good case that if the West had accepted the Russian proposal to stop testing in 1953 the advantage today would be much stronger, since the Russians have used the interval to catch up. But these contentions make no impression on McCone.

Behind him is the brilliant and impassioned physicist, Edward Teller, director of the AEC's Livermore laboratory in California. Out of Livermore came the concept of Project Plowshare, aimed to prove that underground atomic explosions have important peacetime uses. Sceptics view this as a gimmick introduced to justify the eventual resumption of weapons testing.

The key figure is Senator Clinton Anderson, chairman of the Joint Congressional Committee on Atomic Energy. While in the first instance he denounced the Soviet proposal, he has since with his shrewd commonsense understanding come to a more measured view.

While, as has so often been pointed out, the British have all along been ready to accept an agreement that would make a start at verifiable inspection, to be built upon with further scientific development, they are a bit tired of being put in the role of appeasers who rush to Washington to insist on the easy way of compromise. The fact is that Macmillan was invited to reinforce a decision which had, in effect, already been taken.

Letters to the Editor

In Worthy Cause

In your letters to the editor column, April 3, "Begging Students" get a mention. The Chamber of Commerce goodwill tour is going to be doing some of the same noise making and showing off as the students are reported to have done; for a cause we all think worthy.

Showing off in public is work and very difficult work, as it must be done discreetly and in an inoffensive manner. What if the traffic is tied up for a few minutes? The students of Victoria University have done a good job and their efforts should be lauded, and not criticized.

All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy. There are enough unemployed on the rolls of the UIC to cut lawns, clean up basements, etc., without trying to get the students to do a bit of "moonlighting."

Barbers' Holiday

By this time the public should be well used to the changes which have taken place in shopping hours, and will be able to readily adjust to a change in barbers' hours, also.

It is the trend of the times to want to make the most of time available, and the minority should be willing to go with the majority in the up-to-date idea of two days together being better than two separate days, especially when the public will be getting the same service as before or perhaps a little better when the barbers begin to feel the benefit of their weekly two-day vacation.

Subsidized TV

Re Colonist editorial, "Can it be afforded?" dealing with the CBC. I respectfully submit that the CBC is one of our finest and sanest investments. To downgrade the system would be an unmitigated national calamity.

There appears to be no alternative to the CBC. The private communications interests doubtless have a role to play. But it would seem to be a supplementary one. The U.S. experience—the supposedly "free" approach—doesn't augur well for the private interests.

The unwholesomeness of the American way was recently discussed by Mr. Walter Lippmann. His conclusions might well have been noted by Canadians. What he advocates for his country is almost a replica of our subsidized system. "They are unwise friends of our system of private capitalism," Mr. Lippmann wrote, "who do not recognize the fact that the higher life of our society depends on respect for and support of non-commercial institutions."

This is a perspective that has guided Canadian broadcasting policy for some years. But I doubt very much if it is the perspective of the average businessman.

History Forgotten

Nikita Khrushchev, who is calling recent history to witness in his attacks on the German chancellor, Konrad Adenauer, seems quite oblivious that history is all against him and strongly in favor of Adenauer. For it was Adenauer who defied Hitler's orders and paid the penalty for it whilst Khrushchev obediently executed Stalin's orders and liquidated millions of Ukrainian farmers, waiting till Stalin was dead before he abused his memory in a three-hour-long, tear-jerking speech before the Supreme Soviet.

Limited Arms Cut Reds' Second Offer

GENEVA (Reuters)—Russia hinted Monday it would accept limited disarmament measures if no agreement is reached here on total disarmament.

It also offered to negotiate a ban on nuclear weapons in outer space, but only if the West dismantles its foreign bases.

Soviet delegate Valerian Zorin aired these views as the 10-nation disarmament conference completed its third week with little sign of progress.

Zorin rejected the West's three-stage disarmament plan as a basis for negotiations. This followed the rejection of the Soviet three-stage plan by U.S. delegate Frederick Eaton Friday.

Western delegates do not believe the conference already has moved to a point of crisis.

Red China Headache to Russia

NEW YORK (UPI)—Roy W. Howard said Monday it is generally believed in the Far East that Communist China is "fast becoming a serious Russian political problem in the Srippe-Howard news."

Chinese Claim Mount Everest

KATAMANDU, Nepal (UPI)—Premier B. P. Koirala said Monday the Chinese Communists claim Mount Everest and his Himalayan kingdom has rejected any encroachment on its traditional territory.

Everest, on the Nepal-Tibet border, long has been recognized by the world as in Nepalese territory.

Chinese Premier Chou En-lai put forth the claim during Koirala's recent trip to Peking.

papers he had found that belief prevalent during a four-week visit to the area.

He conferred during the trip with scores of government officials.

"There are signs aplenty that Moscow has begun to fear that Peking will not for long be content to remain a junior partner in the Communist alliance," Howard said.

He said that it was generally believed in the Far East that Western hopes for worldwide disarmament would be wrecked by the continuing commitment of Communist China to political and military aggression.

"Hopes of world-wide disarmament, now so popular in the United States and West Europe, are not shared by political realists living on Red China's perimeter," Howard said.

TCA 1959

ANOTHER YEAR OF PROGRESS IN PUBLIC SERVICE

In 1959, TCA service to the public was again improved and expanded, while the general pattern of passenger fares remained stable. For the ninth consecutive year, the air line made a profit. Thus TCA fulfilled its role as a publicly-owned enterprise, bringing the benefits of air transportation to more and more people, at the lowest fares consistent with the maintenance of a high standard of service, while at the same time paying the going rate of return on the public capital invested in the Company. It is noteworthy that, in addition to its main routes, TCA operates to a large number of communities of relatively small population that would not normally be served by an enterprise concerned solely with profit potential.

Following the trend of recent years, traffic growth continued in 1959. The number of passengers carried increased by 13% over 1958 to the record total of 3,209,197, while total revenues rose 12% to $134,678,748. Net income for the year amounted to $152,554.

Load factors—the percentage of seats occupied—declined from 69.3% to 66.5% during the year, the result mainly of the advent of a second trans-continental carrier, and of the competitive pressure of jet equipment on the Atlantic routes. This downward influence on net income was largely offset by marked improvement in unit operating costs.

Operating expenses increased 12%, but a marked improvement was shown in these expenses when related to the 15% increase in ton-miles of transportation available for sale. Among the factors contributing to this result were greater use of modern aircraft, lower fuel prices and the advantages of growing volume. The efficient use of staff enabled the additional capacity to be provided with an increase of only 3.4% in the average number of employees.

The planned expansion of capacity was achieved by greater flight frequency and the use of additional aircraft. In effect, four Viscounts and two Super Constellations were added to the TCA fleet during 1959.

Trans-continental service was increased to 12 daily round trip flights in the summer months. As many as 18 flights a week were operated to Britain and Europe. Service between Canada and Austria began in May with a weekly flight to Vienna. For the first time, service by turbine-powered Viscount was extended to Tampa, Florida.

Increases were shown in Air Freight and Air Express operations, and the Company actively continued to promote these services, which in its view have great potential. TCA, in co-operation with the Canadian Post Office Department, again made a major contribution to one of the world's most expeditious mail delivery systems.

TCA 1959

YEAR OF PREPARATION FOR THE JET AGE

Throughout 1959, TCA was concerned with far-reaching preparations for the introduction of advanced types of aircraft in 1960. The new fleet of DC-8 Jetliners, the first of which are already in service, and the Vickers Vanduqs, which will begin to come into service this fall, will transform the whole scale of air travel in Canada. Much larger and faster than any hitherto employed, the new fleets will modify the entire tempo of the Company's operations.

Operating personnel have been intensively trained in new techniques, and supporting ground equipment and facilities acquired. By the end of 1959, work on TCA's new maintenance base for DC-8 and Vanguard aircraft neared completion. The buildings cover 18 acres on an 84-acre site at Montreal, and entailed outlays of $17,900,000 during the year. The base is the first in the world designed solely for turbine aircraft.

The achievement of TCA's turbine conversion programme, culminating years of planning, will maintain TCA's reputation as one of the most technically advanced airlines in the world. The very substantial expenditures involved are an essential investment in the future of efficient Canadian air transportation.

Island Egg Deficiency Payments

$25,000 Due Producers

A windfall of more than $25,000 is to be picked up by Vancouver Island registered egg producers as a result of a deficiency payment of 8 cents a dozen announced yesterday by Minister of Agriculture D. S. Harkness for the first quarter of 1960.

The payment will cover a maximum of 1,000 dozen of eggs and is the first payment to be made by Ottawa since the egg marketing system was changed last September.

Vancouver Island has more than 300 registered egg producers, and the payment on 1,000 dozen eggs will net each of them a government cheque for $80.

The deficiency payment on a maximum of 4,000 dozens a year to each registered producer when the national weighted average price for eggs drops below 35 cents a dozen for Grade A large.

During the first three months, the national average egg price has fallen to 25 cents a dozen, although individual producers may have averaged more, or less, than this amount for their produce.

Food-Price Cuts Slice Cost of Living Again

OTTAWA (CP).—Lower food prices in February brought about the fourth consecutive monthly decline in Canadian living costs, the bureau of statistics reported today.

The bureau said the consumer price index declined one-fifth of one per cent to 126.9 on March 1 from 127.3 a month earlier.

That made a drop of nearly 1½ points in four months from the record high of 128.3 on Nov. 1, but the decline offset only part of last year's increase. A year ago the March 1 index was 125.5.

The February decline resulted entirely from a relatively large 1.3-per-cent fall in food costs, with lower prices for beef and pork, bacon and a wide range of fresh vegetables.

IT BEATS ME

By Jim Tang

Biggest unanswered question of the moment in the affairs of the world which touch this department has to do with whether or not Victoria is to remain a part of the Western Hockey League next season.

Everyone is wondering, everyone is asking and most everyone interested in hockey—and a few who really aren't—are guessing. But about the only thing that is certain at this time is that no one, but no one, knows for certain—not even Jim Piggott, who owns the Victoria franchise, or Hal Laycoe, who has managed Piggott's operation here and coached his hockey club this season.

Some reasonable deductions, however, can be gleaned from this silence of uncertainty. They are (a) that Victoria will almost certainly remain in the WHL if there is no expansion to include the California cities of Los Angeles and San Francisco; (b) that our chances are still excellent if there is expansion and the Los Angeles franchise goes to someone else except Piggott; and (c) that if Los Angeles and San Francisco join the WHL and Piggott is successful in his bid for the Los Angeles club our professional hockey future is a bit uncertain.

At the moment, the best sum-up is that we have much better than an even chance of having a 1960-61 club, that because the fine play of the Cougars in playdowns is causing a rebirth of hockey interest here which must have interesting connotations for anyone wondering about whether Victoria would be a good risk next season.

San Francisco is probably the key to the California situation. The league final was extended to a best-of-nine series with two games in Los Angeles solely to try and sell the WHL brand of the game there. And what information is available indicates that Los Angeles is likely ready and willing to become part of the WHL. But nothing is clear yet as regards San Francisco, and it wouldn't be feasible to go with only the one California club. Travelling costs would be prohibitive and scheduling problems, already bad, would be well nigh impossible to solve.

As for who would operate the Los Angeles franchise, that's another big unanswered question. Piggott, already on the scene and anxious to get the reaction of Los Angeles fans to the Wednesday and Thursday games, is believed to have the inside track. He is getting opposition from another group, believed to be backed by Eddie Shore and supported by Coley Hall, which could explain in part why the Cougars this season have been the target of so much Vancouver vituperation.

A two-thirds majority is needed in WHL voting to decide who will get the Los Angeles franchise, should one be granted for next season, and the struggle for necessary support is certainly going on behind the scenes.

If Los Angeles joins the WHL and Piggott wins the right to operate the franchise there, all is not necessarily lost as regards our hockey future.

Piggott moved into Victoria by taking over a club which had little future at all and while he is not at all likely to show a profit on his operation, order has been restored out of what amounted to chaos. Fan interest has been renewed and the Victoria franchise will again have its two sponsors with which to bargain for playing help from National Hockey League clubs. The city is again a good hockey risk and if Piggott does move to Los Angeles there has to be a good chance that someone else can see a good chance of success here.

Sitting in the most favored position of all at the moment is Laycoe, who has played down his part in the success of his club this season but whose able job hasn't gone unnoticed by either his employer or others who would like very much to be signing his salary cheques next season.

Deservedly so, Laycoe has no worries at all about his hockey future. Regardless of where he operates, Piggott would prefer it if he could retain the services of his present manager-coach. But he has some considerable opposition. The Portland group which has the Rose City franchise all set for next season, is every bit as anxious to get Laycoe's signature on a contract and it is suspected they have made him a glad-to-turn-down offer. At least one presumes that Harry Glickman didn't come to the city last week just to watch the Cougars complete their sweep over Seattle Totems.

And then there is Victoria. Laycoe, of course, isn't saying a thing about his future plans at the moment but he has made no secret of the fact that he would hardly call it bad luck if developments made it necessary for him to continue to call Victoria home.

"I like it here," he will say and all other things being equal, that would probably be the deciding factor. But Portland is bigger than Victoria and Los Angeles bigger than Portland and both may be better bets than Victoria for a big hockey future. Our chances of keeping him would have to rate lower than our chances of keeping professional hockey, but...

Speaking Briefly

Sox, Going for Power, Add Sievers to Cast

Chicago White Sox, apparently sacrificing some of the speed and defence which featured their American League pennant win last year, have added another slow-footed veteran slugger to their lineup.

They climaxed a persistent battle yesterday when they swung a deal with Washington Senators which brought them 33-year-old Roy Sievers, an outfielder and/or first-baseman.

To get him, the Sox gave up catcher Earl Batley, rookie-infielder Don Mincher, and cash estimated at $150,000.

Sievers joins a line-up which includes Ted Kluszewski and Sherm Lollar two who also rely on power rather than speed to get on base. And since the end of last season, the White Sox have also picked up outfielder Minnie Miñoso, fleet but getting on, and third-baseman Gene Freese, a hard-hitter but a bit of a defensive liability.

It was the second deal of the week for the Senators, who apparently aren't going to make a deal with the New York Yankees after all.

On Sunday, the Washington club moved to fix a second-base problem by getting veteran Bill Gardner from Baltimore in exchange for catcher Clint Courtney and infielder Ron Samford.

YANKEES OUT?

It was the second deal of the week for the Senators, who apparently aren't going to make a deal with the New York Yankees after all.

LIONEL CONACHER, Jr., son of Canada's late "Big Train," has been signed by Montreal Alouettes of the CFL. Conacher starred at full-back last season with University of Western Ontario and will be reunited at Montreal with Meo Poliziani, his fullback running mate...

THINGS DIDN'T look at all good for him there after he hooked his tee shot, and even after he planted his second shot on the green, about 30 feet from the pin.

Finley was also on in two and it looked as if the hole would be halved—until Fellow stepped up and ran his putt down for a birdie-three and a tie. He finally won on the 20th with a par three, dropping his tee shot about eight feet from the cup.

One other former champion also was eliminated, Uplands veteran Bob Morrison putting a hole in a hole before bowing out to Ron MacLeod, last year's defeated finalist.

Wakeham stayed in the hunt with a 4 and 3 win over Gorge Vale-clubmate Gordie Jones. Medalist Dr. George Bigelow also won, besting Dave Fanthorpe of Gorge Vale, 3 and 2. Former champions Laurie Kerr and Laurie Carroll, Victoria Golf Club pro, both reached the second round, set for next Sunday.

'We'll Be on the Plane' Only Laycoe Prediction

"I've never had a prediction in my life," manager-coach Hal Laycoe parried last night as he put the finishing touches to arrangements which will have him and his Cougars heading by air toward Los Angeles this afternoon.

"But," he added, almost reluctantly in his ever-present fear that someone might construe a statement as optimism, "I will say that the boys have played better than they did Saturday night."

Saturday night was the night that the Cougars ran their playoff streak to five games by knocking off the league-champion Canucks, 3-2, in overtime to take a 1-0 lead in the best-of-nine Western Hockey League final.

The second and third games will be at Los Angeles tomorrow and Thursday, the fourth game here next Saturday and the fifth in Vancouver the following Tuesday. If more are needed, they will be Wednesday, Friday and Saturday of next week, the middle game in Vancouver.

A SLIP?
Getting back to Laycoe, while he never ventured a prediction there could be something revealing in his statement that "you must know they (the Canucks) have never really been tested all season."

"They've never had a game during the schedule that they really had to win and they got the jump on Edmonton in the semi-finals. Now, if we can keep the pressure on them..." He never got by there. It was beginning to sound almost like a prediction.

There is no doubt, however, that the Victoria coach wants to win this one more than any other series he has been involved in during a lengthy hockey career. He is seething over continued allegations from Vancouver that the Cougars are always resorting to defensive hockey and are keeping fans away in other cities.

"That's... that's..." he fumed, unable to find a word which could adequately describe his feelings.

"I was three years in New Westminster and we had the most wide-open club in the league. I'm not coaching a bit differently now. Talk about defensive hockey and you have to think about the Canucks. Look at the records, they always lead the league in fewest goals against. They don't know any other way to play the game."

His club starts the California jaunt in good condition. Goalie Marcel Pelletier's injured eye is on the mend and the rest of the club is in fine fettle. The Cougars will be accompanied on the trip by Arnie Schmutz, the little firebrand who was their sparkplug until he was put out of action for the season with a skull fracture.

"That little guy will help us by just being there," Laycoe said.

The Cougars leave Seattle early this evening, should be having their dinner about three hours later. They'll arrive back home Friday evening in good condition. Goalie

Only Sponsor Can Save Soccer Treat for City

Unless a sponsor is found within 48 hours, Victoria soccer fans are going to have to go to Vancouver to watch Hearts of Midlothian, one of two British eleveners making a Canadian tour this spring.

Without a touring team for several years, Victoria got its chance to watch an international soccer match this year when Dave Fryatt, chairman of the B.C. Football Commission, was successful in his fight to book a team here.

The game was tentatively set for Monday, June 6, and all that was needed to make it definite was to find a sponsor willing to underwrite the difference in the unlikely result that game receipts would not amount to the $3,000 guarantee.

Victoria officials were unsuccessful in finding a sponsor and the match has been cancelled—unless a sponsor can be found before tomorrow, in which case there is every chance the match may be rescheduled.

As matters stand now, Hearts will play Manchester City at Empire Stadium on Saturday, May 28, and then meet the B.C. All-Stars on the following Saturday, June 4.

Northwest League Includes Victoria

Formation of an eight-team Northwest Baseball League, which will include a Victoria entry, was accomplished at a meeting in Seattle Sunday.

Opening games in the semi-professional league will be at Bellingham with the Victoria entry providing the opposition on May 21 and 22. The Bells will open the Victoria season on Saturday, May 28, when a split doubleheader has been scheduled.

TWO DIVISIONS

The league has been divided into North and South Divisions of four clubs each. With Victoria and Bellingham in the North are Cheney Studs of Seattle and Kent, Centalla and Aberdeen are the only two South entries named so far, league officials planning to announce the other two clubs as soon as final arrangements have been completed.

President of the league is Joe Budnick, veteran Seattle baseball man. Ed Vervynck of Seattle is secretary-treasurer while each club will name one director to the executive board.

Art Worth selected some weeks back, will be the manager of the Victoria club, which will draw its players from this area and be sponsored by the Victoria and District Amateur Baseball Association.

Two Upsets, Fine Comeback Feature Open's First Round

First round match play in the Vancouver Island Open golf championship, produced two upsets and a stirring comeback to feature play at the Gorge Vale Golf Club on Sunday.

Gordon Whan of Duncan and Dick Munn, a 17-year-old corner who plays out of Cedar Hill were the surprise winners and Gordie Fellow of Uplands the fellow who pulled his game together just in time to earn another chance to win the title being defended by Bill Wakeham.

Things didn't look at all good for him there after he hooked his tee shot, and even after he planted his second shot on the green, about 30 feet from the pin.

Finley was also on in two and it looked as if the hole would be halved—until Fellow stepped up and ran his putt down for a birdie-three and a tie. He finally won on the 20th with a par three, dropping his tee shot about eight feet from the cup.

One other former champion also was eliminated, Uplands veteran Bob Morrison putting a hole in a hole before bowing out to Ron MacLeod, last year's defeated finalist.

Wakeham stayed in the hunt with a 4 and 3 win over Gorge Vale-clubmate Gordie Jones. Medalist Dr. George Bigelow also won, besting Dave Fanthorpe of Gorge Vale, 3 and 2. Former champions Laurie Kerr and Laurie Carroll, Victoria Golf Club pro, both reached the second round, set for next Sunday.

Island Championship For Two City Teams

Playing away from home was no disadvantage for a pair of Victoria minor soccer teams Sunday as they won Vancouver Island championships at Nanaimo.

Victoria Optimists had the most impressive victory, a 6-0 decision over Nanaimo that gave the locals the Division II Island title.

Courtenay Bowler To Represent B.C.

NANAIMO—Pete Svetlich of Courtenay is one tournament victory away from a berth in the Canadian tenpin championships.

Svetlich took the first big step toward the dominion finals here Sunday night, putting on a blazing finish to win the 24-game B.C. tenpin championships. Next stop is Edmonton, where he will meet the Alberta champion in a roll-off to decide the far western entry in the Canadian championships in Calgary next month.

It was a well-earned victory for the Courtenay star, who snatched the provincial title just when it appeared that Vancouver champion Kenny Grant had it sewed up.

GREAT FINISH

Svetlich rolled 264 in his 23rd game, and finished with a 268 for an eight-game series of 1,647 and a grand total of 4,553, 60 pins better than Grant's 4,493.

Grant, who had a 147-pin lead over Wilbur Webb of Victoria after Saturday's 16 games, faltered in Sunday's bowling and rolled only 1,425, his poorest showing of the tournament.

Defending champion Johnny Allenby of Vancouver, who was seeded into the tournament, finished third with 1,543 Sunday and a total of 4,360. Next came Webb, 1,397-4,318; Walt Lewis of New Westminster, 1,467-4,382; Sid Norman of Nanaimo, 1,513-4,248; Victoria zone champion Roy Begg, 1,384-4,164; and Leo Fritzler of Prince George, 1,366-4,126.

Svetlich rolled at a crisp 189.7 average for 24 games. Webb, last year's Victoria zone king, averaged 179.9 while Begg, who was never in contention for the provincial crown, averaged 173.5.

Svetlich was hot from the start of Sunday's bowling. In his second game he set a tournament record of 256 for a single game, then shattered it in his final two games to

Empress Championship Flight Includes 12 Calgary Entrants

Tom Williams, shooting a 76 for a net 66, won medal honors in the men's section but holidaying Calgarians won 12 of the 32 qualifying berths in the Empress Golf Tournament yesterday.

Some fine scores were turned in by the field of 148. J. S. Poyen of Calgary, who plays to a four handicap, had the low gross score with a 71. Right behind him was another Calgarian, Mike Pyke, who carded a 72. E. Manahan of Calgary, Lee Stiel of Seattle, and Ross Clark of Chilliwack, all five-handicappers, toured the Victoria Golf Club links in 74 strokes.

Defending champion Ernie Ketcham of Seattle qualified handsily with his 79-81 and meets Don Carpenter of Chilliwack, 79-10, in his first round match today.

Eleven American golfers—three from Astoria, four from Seattle, and one each from Vancouver, Wash., Anacortes, Bellevue and Portland, qualified for the championship round.

Joining the 12 Belgarians from the Canadian side were two Chilliwack entrants and W. F. Munro, Keith Olson, George Goy, D. J. Fosbrooke, Jim Barry, J. F. Fidler and F. L. Worsley of Victoria.

Stanley Cup final for a second straight season, with a reputed stronger team, but still only an outside chance of dethroning the mighty Canadiens.

Coach Punch Imlach's Maple Leafs earned the opportunity—or misfortune—of meeting Montreal again by eliminating Detroit Red Wings in the semi-finals.

Toronto scored a come-from-behind 4-2 win Sunday night at Detroit to take the best-of-seven series four games to two. Leafs won four of the last five games of the series to advance against Montreal.

SEEK RECORD
The well-rested Canadiens will be seeking a record fifth straight Stanley Cup championship and will be playing in the final for the 10th consecutive year.
Canadians have been idle since last Thursday when they completed a sweep of their best-of-seven semi-final series with the Chicago Black Hawks.

Coach Toe Blake's Canadiens, unscathed on in their last 129 minutes and 30 seconds of the playoffs, scrimmaged Saturday and again Monday at suburban Verdun.

Coach Blake welcomed the rest after the semi-final series. "I'm not worried about the playoff," said Blake. "It won't be hard to get them up for the final because they always play well under pressure."

TOUGH AT HOME
Canadians, winners of 23 of their last 25 home playoff games, host the opening two games Thursday and Saturday. Series moves to Toronto next Tuesday and Thursday.
Toronto coach Imlach apparently isn't bothered by the odds against his club. Imlach is already on record that "my team will win it all."

Toronto staggered Detroit Sunday night with three third-period goals after trailing 1-0 and 2-1 earlier in the game.

Centre Bob Pulford, described by Detroit coach Sid Abel as the most dangerous Leaf to handle, scored two goals, twice pulling Toronto from behind.

'Short-Cut' Story Turned Down By Magistrate

A sailor's story that he was "just taking a short-cut" and not prowling by night, as charged, was rejected by Magistrate William Osler yesterday in Esquimalt police court.

John V. Abernathy, HMCS Naden, was convicted, then remanded a week for probation report and sentence. He was arrested after being found early March 18 in the backyard of Ivor Smith's home at 478 Admirals.

Kenneth George Thompson, 816 Lampson, who pleaded guilty in the same court to possession of stolen property, got a suspended sentence, under $500 bond for nine months.

He was charged with possession of staplers, marking pens and pencils stolen from a school by a juvenile.

In city court, Ronald Kolinski, 18, of 527 Hillside, admitted a charge of trying to pass a welfare cheque which had been raised to $360 from $66.

The cheque had been tendered as payment for a used car, but was refused by the dealer who called police. Kolinski was also remanded to Monday for probation report and sentence.

Also in city court, George H. Faerber, 1241 Acton, pleaded guilty to impaired driving, was fined $250 and had his licence suspended.

Police said he was picked up Saturday at 10:35 p.m. after his car struck the Fountain Circle.

David Michael White, 4135 Morris, pleaded guilty in city court to being a minor in possession of liquor — some bottles of beer — and was fined $20.

William Pugh, 16, of 815 Condor, pleaded guilty Saturday in Saanich court to breaking entry and theft at Northgate Cafe, 3240 Douglas, and was remanded to Thursday for probation report.

He had previously admitted four burglary charges in city court.

Erwin Sidney Meeres, 4360 Hughes Road, was found guilty Saturday in Sidney court to two counts of hiring an unlicensed chauffeur to operate a truck. He was fined $20 on each offence.

Istvan Laszlo, 136 Bushby, was fined $10 on each charge for driving without a muffler, horn or hand brake in city police court Saturday.

Dying Man Lives to Aid World

NEW YORK (UPI) — An eminent nuclear scientist has refused surgery for cancer because it might interrupt the time he has left for his personal campaign for world disarmament.

Dr. Leo Szilard, 62, has been in a New York hospital with cancer of the bladder and prostate for three months.

He has refused surgery in the belief an unsuccessful operation might further shorten the amount of time he can devote to spreading his ideas on disarmament from his hospital bed. But he has agreed to permit treatment by radiation therapy.

It was Szilard, Enrico Fermi and Herbert Anderson who, in 1939, proved in a basement laboratory of Columbia University that nuclear chain reactions were possible.

Szilard was one of the drafters of the Einstein letter, written to President Roosevelt two months before the start of the Second World War. The letter urged development of an atomic bomb by the U.S.

After the war, the Budapest-born scientist spearheaded a campaign that prevented passage by Congress of legislation to give the military control of atomic energy.

Today Szilard, although confined to a hospital bed, is possibly as busy as a negotiator at Geneva. He keeps two secretaries busy typing the voluminous correspondence, articles and scientific papers he dictates into a small dictating machine.

His many visitors include such famed scientists as Robert Oppenheimer and Jonas Salk.

Szilard calls for a two-year moratorium on nuclear testing. Then, he suggests, a large group of U.S. and Russian scientists should be sent into "exile," perhaps in Vienna, to learn each other's language, exchange views and become familiar with the attitudes of each other's countries.

His eyes sparkled as he envisioned these exiles returning to their homelands to report on what they had learned of their opposites' nation.

Eventually, he hopes there would develop an atmosphere of mutual trust and moral interest which would spread through both nations, creating a demand for disarmament that could not be withstood.

Pope Will Be a Negro 'In God's Good Time'

NEW YORK (AP)—A Paulist priest says he believes the Roman Catholic Church will have a Negro Pope "in God's good time." Rev. John Sheerin, editor of The Catholic World, said: "My white skin does not make me more a child of God than my dark-skinned brother. In short, our Catholic faith is totally color-blind."

Apartheid-Hating Bishop Flees, Hopes to Return

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (Reuters)—The Anglican Bishop of Johannesburg said Monday he is eager to return "provided I can obtain reasonable assurance that I can continue my work and duties there unmolested."

Dr. Ambrose Reeves, uncompromising foe of South Africa's racial policies, earlier fled to the British protectorate of Swaziland. In a telephoned statement to the South African Press Association, he said: "I left Johannesburg last Saturday morning for Swaziland where I now am staying to await clarification of my rights in the Union of South Africa."

"It is my first wish to return to Johannesburg—provided I can obtain reasonable assurance that I can continue my work and duties there unmolested."

Objective: No Cancer

The basic objective of the 1960 Conquer Cancer Campaign is to put ourselves out of business. Dugald Gillespie, chairman of the Victoria appeal committee, said last night. "We are appealing for $50,000 this year and much of this will go to finance research aimed at finding the key to cancer."

"When cancer is conquered finally our job will end," he said. More than 62 per cent of the production of the Canadian mining industry is exported to other countries.

Trans-Canada Air Lines has brought in the innovation with the start of its DC-8 jet service from Montreal and Toronto to Vancouver last Friday.

The booze: Champagne. Described as a bubbly apple juice, it has an alcoholic content of 2.6 per cent, a TCA official here said Monday in confirming the break-through. It is served with meals in first-class cabin service on the jets. It marks the first formal introduction of alcoholic beverages on a Canadian run. Although Canadian flights overseas serve liquor, it has never been tried on domestic service because of varying liquor laws in the provinces.

"This is a sort of trial to see how it goes," said Al Carlson, regional public relations manager for TCA. "There is apparently no legislation to say how high up a province's jurisdiction extends, and our legal department has said to give it a try."

"I know that for a long time we have investigated cocktails or some sort of beverage with meals. As far as I know there are no plans to extend it to other flights."

The champagne tastes a little like champagne, but it can be drunk like ordinary apple juice.

Magnolia's Happy

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

Seems to me the mere mention of magnolia conjures up a mental picture of the deep south—of tall-pilared colonial mansions and cotton fields, of Rhett Butler and Scarlett O'Hara, of happy negroes strumming banjos in the "quarters" behind the Big House. Vancouver Island is a long way from Virginia, but the magnolia is perfectly at home in our climate.

It is a tree of distinction, and a specimen planted this spring would be an investment yielding over the years a return all out of proportion to its trifling cost. While it is just a little late now for the planting of bare-root trees, modern nurseries sell their magnolias either "canned"—potted up in large tin cans—or "B & B," which means balled and burlapped—a good ball of soil around the roots and carefully wrapped in burlap sacking. Specimens prepared in this fashion can be planted as late as you please, as the planting involves no root shock or disturbance at all.

Some of this family are very shy bloomers—the fabulous magnolia campbellii, for instance, has been known to dawdle along for 40 years before the first of its lovely rose-pink flowers appeared. There are others which will bloom the year after planting and a few which would even pop out a few cup-shaped blossoms a couple of weeks after they are purchased and set out.

The magnolia of the old south is Grandiflora, which retains its leaves through the winter and is probably the finest evergreen plant we can grow here. The flowers are rather sparse and a bit slow in coming, but are well worth waiting for, as they are enormous cup-shaped goblets, up to 10 inches across, with waxy creamy-white petals and a lovely fruity scent. A good specimen will set you back about $7.50 and, for best results it should be grown under the protection of a south-facing wall.

The name "tulip tree" is sometimes applied to magnolia soulangeana, although this name actually belongs to Liriodendron, a forest tree from the Carolinas. Soulangeana is the one most commonly grown hereabouts, with goblet-shaped flowers white within and purple-flushed on the outside. These plants run ordinarily from $3.50 to $20 depending on the size and age of the tree, but I saw some advertised recently for $2.50, which is a terrific buy.

Magnolia stellata, the "star" magnolia, is the one for the impatient gardener, for it blooms at an earlier age than any of the family—in fact, it is possible to buy and plant "B & B" specimens already in bud and ready to flower. The blossoms are white and star-shaped, quite unlike the goblet form of the other magnolias, and its fragrance is light and singularly refreshing. Prices are about the same as for Soulangeana.

The magnolias like a well drained soil enriched with peat moss and leaf-mould, and a position shaded from the early morning sun, so flower buds nipped by a spring frost will have a chance to thaw out slowly before the sun hits them. They appreciate a heavy mulch of half-rotted leaves over the roots, which should be topped up annually.

If you buy a canned specimen, have your nurseryman slit the metal with his special snippers before you take it home. A "B & B" tree should be placed in the planting hole first, then cut away as much of the sacking as will come away readily, disturbing the roots as little as possible but straightening any long ones which are curled up, then cover with peaty soil quickly to avoid any drying out. Water in with a few drops of vitamin B1 in the water, and finish the filling in with loose, dry soil on top. Spray the foliage frequently with clear water the first summer.

More than 10,000 requests for M. V. Chesnut's special sweetpea seeds have poured into The Daily Colonist offices in the past eight days. This has meant some delay in filling all the requests. However, indications now are that all requests will have been filled by the end of this week.

The Viewing World

By John Crosby

All in the Spirit of Fun

On paper, a TV series devoted to classic murder mysteries is a marvelous idea. But the production of "The Bat" which opened the series on NBC-TV Thursday night raises some large questions. "The Bat," which derived from Mary Roberts Rinehart's "The Circular Staircase," practically started the mania for modern mystery in fiction and on the stage.

But vast strides, not necessarily in wholesome directions, have been taken since then. The modern mystery turned a big corner with "The Maltese Falcon" by Dashiell Hammett, who laid the groundwork. Then came Mickey Spillane, who ruined the facade of realism by extending the sex and sadism to ridiculous lengths so successfully that everyone adopted this technique.

At any rate the spectacle of an old lady (Helen Hayes) outwitting a guy dressed as a bat in an old house while Lizzie the housekeeper screamed and screamed doesn't raise any goose pimples any more. In fact, you're likely only to be amused.

The question raised by this one is simply: are they going to play it for laughs or for thrills? Many of the old classic murders are going to sound pretty funny in the cold light of the twentieth century where the kids start killing each other in the streets at the age of 15.

However, if you view this—as I did—in a spirit of fun and games, you'll have a gay old time. Never have I seen so many doors opening silently (closeup of the handle turning) or so many faces at the window (scream) or so many fortuitous electrical failures at the precise point when the plot needed them (scream) or so many figures scampering down the dim corridor (scream) or so many unexplained entrances or unexplained window openings or unexplained fireplace closings or terribly explicable candles flickering in the wind or flashes of lightning.

That's—as the poet (Howard Dietz circa 1932) used to say—entertainment and Mary Roberts Rinehart believed in giving them lots for their money. Everyone, in Mary Roberts Rinehart's books, got into the act; everyone had a motive for killing the old skinflint; everyone's motives tied up in a neat little bundle with everyone else's motives. Believe me, it wasn't easy. But I'm not sure it's appreciated in this day of "The Blob," "The Fly," and Alfred Hitchcock.

The acting by Helen Hayes, Jason Robards, and Margaret Hamilton (who did all the screaming) was broad and so was the direction by Paul Nickell. Joseph Welch was the host and he was splendidly fusty and old world and all that, don't y'know.

And, while we're about it, we might dwell for a moment on Jason Robards, one of Broadway's fastest rising young actors. A veteran of television, Robards now only does about four shows a year.

I've been in television from the beginning. I've played every arch villain known to man. But I think the role that I'm best known for is "For Whom the Bell Tolls." I think the "Bell" made me more recognizable than the one movie or all the Broadway shows I've done.

Hollywood Today

'Peyton Place' Paris-Bound?

By SHEILAH GRAHAM

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—Olivia de Havilland, offered the lead in "Return to Peyton Place," told producer Jerry Wald: "I'll be delighted to do it—if you make it in Paris." New England in Paris? Livvy has also been offered five television series since her arrival here. Decisions will be made when husband Pierre Galante arrives in Hollywood.

Liberace, slimmer by 41 pounds, says he did it on Robert Cummings' diet of 330 pills a day. Count 'em. 330.

Brigitte Bardot is wearing gypsy earrings as big as hoops—a new style in Paris. . . . While sister Miljanou, who would rather be an actress, is working on the production side in a French movie studio, in hopes of grabbing an acting job.

Debra Paget's honeymoon will be over when she goes to Mexico April 15 to play a bad woman in a movie for Ben Boggs. And you can bet Debra will soon star in a picture for her new husband, ex-bullfighter Bud Boetticher.

CUT-RITE

LET'S TALK

By Rudolf Flesch

I've just read "Meyer Berger's New York" (Random House). I think it's a masterpiece, a minor classic, one of the finest books I've ever read.

Meyer Berger, who died last year, was a reporter for the New York Times. He was famous throughout the newspaper world for being a superb reporter. Not only that, he was a wonderful human being, friendly, unassuming, always helpful to everyone—a man who had no enemies but thousands of friends who loved him.

He covered innumerable big stories (and got the Pulitzer prize for one of them), but his masterpiece and monument was his daily column "About New York," which he wrote in 1939-40 and again from 1953 till 1959.

He loved New York, knew it

Farriers and Flowers

The book is a selection from these columns, made by Berger just before he died. It's filled to the brim with interesting facts and people.

It tells you that there are 265 farriers (horseshoers) in 17 union locals throughout the U.S. and Canada.

And that the flowers referred to in the Bible passage "Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed as any of these" were not lilies but poppy anemones.

And that cats and dogs live longer now—an average of 10 years against seven or eight a couple of decades back.

And a million other things you never knew.

It's also full of interesting quotes. Like these:

Lee Toy Kin, a general storekeeper in Chinatown, said, "This shop is like Sleepy Hollow. You sit. You wait. Things may come out right. Things may come out wrong."

The first librarian of the Astor Library wrote in 1853, "Readers read excellent books, except the small fry who read the trashy Scott, Cooper, Dickens."

Mr. Arthur Klar, who sells refreshments at Lewisohn Stadium, said, "It is an irrefutable fact that Brahms, Beethoven and Bach go better with beer; that Gershwin and popular music go better with soft drinks, though mostly with ginger ale."

And a Dial-A-Prayer message that kept a man from suicide read, "We thank Thee, O Lord, that there are no hopeless cases in Thy clinic. Grant to every seeking soul now Thy healing and salvation."

Finally, there are all those stories about ordinary — and yet marvelously extraordinary — people. They are openly sentimental. Some of them make you cry.

Berger was a peerless master of straight, objective reporting. I defy anyone to find an unnecessary word in the 322 pages of his book.

It is a model of English prose. It should be read and studied in schools and colleges throughout the world.

Africa Spurs Killing

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Two young Negroes, who police said were agitated by racial troubles in Africa and in the South, were accused Monday of fatally beating a white man.

Booked on charges of first-degree murder were Paul Arnold Machen, 21, a boxer and the brother of heavyweight Eddie Machen, and Charles Ivan Patterson, 21.

Victim Edward St. George, 44, found early Sunday in a downtown warehouse, died later from a skull fracture.

Police Lieut. William Hoff said: "There was no sense to it. They didn't even know him. They had a few drinks. They had been reading about South Africa and troubles in our South and just went out to do something about it. At least that's what one of them told me."

More Arrests Due on Tolls

MONTREAL (CP) — Three former toll collectors on Jacques Cartier bridge were suddenly arrested by the RCMP Monday on warrants alleging theft and breach of trust in toll operations on the scandal-ridden bridge.

RCMP Supt. Rene Belec said more arrests are imminent.

Warrants for the arrest of six men—all former toll collectors on the bridge—were reported to involve theft of a total of $25,750.

Highest individual amount was $8,500, lowest $1,500.

Downer Rites Set Today

Funeral services will be held today at 11 a.m. in St. John's Anglican Church for Canon Charles William Downer, assistant priest at the church, who died Sunday in Veterans' Hospital at the age of 76.

Mr. Downer, born in Gloucester, England, served for many years in Saskatoon with St. John's Cathedral, Christ Church and St. George's Church.

He served with the 11th Field Ambulance during the First World War.

Surviving are his widow, Margaret Ethel, at their home at 160 South Turner Street, and a sister, Mrs. John Hill of Vancouver.

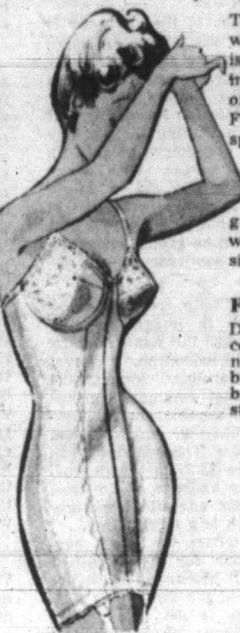

Following the funeral service, the remains will be forwarded to Saskatoon by McCall's funeral home for services and interment.

Expert Talks on Alcoholics

'They Never Grew Up'

Addiction to alcohol, drugs, tranquilizers, cigarettes and coffee all stem from similar causes, W. G. Wilson, education director of the Alcohol Research and Education Council, said last night.

"It is a physical, mental, social and spiritual illness and a combination of these factors overcomes a person's resistance to strain," he said, at a meeting of Victoria Douglas Rotary Club.

"The real cause of alcoholism is a personality deficiency. There are people who have really never grown up and so they have started to use alcohol or some other drug and they find themselves completely dependent on it."

Mr. Wilson said studies had proved some persons were alcoholics before they had taken a single drink. Others became alcoholics on one drink.

Work of his organization in schools stresses personality development. Mr. Wilson said studies have shown that 83 per cent of alcoholics treated at one United States clinic began drinking before they were 20 years of age.

Parley Held On Court

Victoria alderman Lily Wilson and Oak Bay councillor Allan Cox met with officials of the attorney-general's department yesterday to discuss costs of establishment of a family and juvenile court.

Esquimalt Tons Of Junk

Junk by the ton was hauled away from Esquimalt homes and businesses yesterday by municipal trucks marking the start of the annual council-sponsored clean-up campaign. The drive runs all week.

Reeve A. C. Wurtelle last night urged all residents to take advantage of the free offer. A call to the municipal engineers office will bring a truck to their doorstep within 24 hours to make the pick-up.

"It's a matter of civic pride, said the reeve. He added: "We hope people will get rid of any old junk now . . . and not try to dump it in the bushes someplace later. We would be delighted to haul it away for them."

No Uniformity

Day-Off Battle Barbers' Own

Victoria barbers, divided over having Monday instead of Wednesday as their closing day, could end up without a uniform day off.

Majority have petitioned for a city bylaw amendment changing the day to Monday, but there has been strong opposition from the minority.

City council finance committee yesterday deferred consideration of the petition, but

Copter Flight Today May Herald New Era

S-61 Sikorsky

City Park Heliport

A new era in inter-city travel may open here at 10 a.m. today when a nine-passenger Sikorsky helicopter touches down at Macdonald Park in James Bay.

The turbine-powered amphibious craft may be a forerunner of a fleet of S-61 Sikorsky helicopters plying the downtown-Victoria to downtown-Vancouver air route.

Today's flight from Vancouver International Airport to downtown Victoria by a smaller version of the U.S.-built machine will be the first in a series of test hops by Okanagan Helicopters Ltd., to prove the feasibility of the inter-city service.

An official of the company said late yesterday that today's flight is scheduled to last just 30 minutes.

On board today's flight will be Okanagan Helicopters' president Glen W. McPherson, as well as Sikorsky representatives and observers for an aircraft engine manufacturer.

The flight is scheduled to be met by Mayor Percy Scurren and other civic dignitaries.

Mr. McPherson told the annual meeting of his company last year that fares on a downtown-to-downtown helicopter service would probably be equal to present air fares plus airport limousine charges.

Officials of the company have looked over heliport sites in the James Bay area and are reported anxious to find a waterfront site so that the amphibious capability of the Sikorsky can be used.

Okanagan has filed an application for the Victoria-Vancouver service with the Air Transport Board and will launch the service provided route studies and the economics of the Sikorsky craft show that the operation can be run without a direct subsidy.

Earlier the company had considered inaugurating the run with the Fairley Roto-dyne but later learned that it will not be available until 1964.

Drop in Building

Officials Blame 'Tight Money'

"Tight money" was blamed by officials in two municipalities yesterday for a recession in building in March, but construction in Victoria city bounced ahead.

Saanich issued 76 permits in March for construction valued at $507,100, compared with 125 the previous March for construction totalling $970,000.

The March permits brought the Saanich totals for the first three months of the year to 191 permits and $1,327,986, compared with 301 permits and $2,427,080 in the first three months of 1959.

The Saanich permits included 37 for dwellings this March, 87 in March, 1959.

Victoria, on the other hand, issued 582 permits in March for construction valued at $741,692, compared with 532 permits and $452,312 in March of last year. And Victoria's 1959 three-month totals were 1,586 permits and $2,213,378, compared with 1,492 permits and $1,849,624 in 1959.

Esquimalt had a freakishly poor month — 10 permits for construction valued at $28,690, compared with 21 permits and $132,790 in March last year.

Three-month totals this year were 39 permits and $247,750; last year, 52 permits and $326,640.

Figures for Oak Bay were not available.

New Varsity Librarian To Plunge Into Planning

Victoria University last night appointed a head librarian whose first duty will be to guide planning of the new $1,400,000 library expected to open on the campus by late 1962.

Picked for the job starting

July 1 was D. W. Halliwell, at present assistant librarian at the University of Saskatchewan.

Principal Dr. W. W. Hickman said construction of the new library building should start within a year. The library now occupies part of the Ewing building and in the past eight years has grown from 10,000 volumes to 50,000.

When the new building is opened the space now used for the library will be converted into about one dozen classrooms to meet sharply increased student enrolment.

Mr. Halliwell holds BA and MA degrees in English from Saskatchewan and went on to take his bachelor of library science at University of Toronto. He has 11 years' experience in library work.

The new library along with a new science building and a classroom and office block will be built with money raised by the current $2,500,000 Victoria University building fund drive. The provincial government will contribute a matching dollar grant.

Bennett Due Back In Office Today

Premier Bennett is expected to be back at his desk today after enjoying a two-week vacation following the proroguing of the legislature.

It will mark the first time the premier has returned to his office for any prolonged stretch of work since he underwent a kidney operation in January just before the opening of the legislature.

He made several appearances at the legislative sessions, but was never present for any great periods except when he delivered his budget address.

He is expected to be at work in his office for a couple of weeks and then take a boat trip through B.C.'s inside coastal passage and then in May and early June make a goodwill visit to Britain with his advisers.

The basketball standard outside the fence of Macdonald Park will be moved to nearby Todd Park.

The basketball hoop was installed about three months ago, outside the fence but on park property, to take advantage of a blacktopped parking area.

Result, the delegates claimed, was a "regular rabble" of children playing on the street as well as the parking area, sometimes as early as 7:30

2,000 Women Needed For Varsity 'Mop-Up'

Nearly 2,000 women are urgently needed to carry out a "mop-up" canvass April 25 and 26 for the Victoria University building fund drive.

The situation — with less than three weeks to go before the start of the final residential canvass — was described by organizer, Mrs. Daryl Elford yesterday as "an emergency."

An earlier appeal brought forward a number of volunteer women and some women's organizations are expected to provide other canvassers.

The residential canvass will be the final operation in the current campaign for expansion of Victoria University. It's aim is to reach those who haven't had an opportunity to contribute towards the $2,500,000 campaign goal.

Campaign chairman R. B. Wilson and E. W. Arnott, chairman of the national corporations subcommittee, said yesterday they were "satisfied and encouraged" with results of their nine-day tour of Eastern Canada to solicit donations.

on a Sunday morning, sometimes as late as 11 p.m. with illumination from car lights; using language "that is something terrific" sitting on one man's fence "like a bunch of crows," and attracting and exciting great big dogs.

They appeared in support of a petition of 21 names for removal of the basketball stand, and Parks committee also received a petition of 158 names for its retention, but the names, the delegates claimed, were secured "in the streets behind where they have nothing to do with it."

A Host of Golden Daffodils

Feast for the eyes, slopes of Beacon Hill are a yellow carpet of daffodils. Above, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Putt, 627 Grenville Avenue, enjoy yesterday's sunshine in the park which according to administrator W. H. Warren is now at its springtime loveliest. — (Colonist photo)

Haddock Re-elected Hospital Chairman

Royal Jubilee Hospital board of directors re-elected J. Courtney Haddock as hospital chairman for the coming year. Also returned to office were vice chairman Ian M. Horne and James C. Thow, treasurer.

Poison Control

Doorway Safety Asked in Motion

A Victoria safety group is seeking a change in the National Housing Act to prohibit construction of doorways in homes which open above basement stairs.

The home and family section of the Greater Victoria and District Safety Council last night approved a motion asking the B.C. Safety Council to press for the amendment.

OPEN ON LANDING

Harry Talbot, president of the Victoria safety council, said Workmen's Compensation Board regulations specifically prohibited this type of construction and called for all doors at the head of stairs to open on a landing.

Mrs. D. M. Bullard of the poison control centre at Royal Jubilee Hospital, and Mrs. H. Corbett, who is in charge of the emergency ward at St. Joseph's Hospital, addressed the meeting.

LITTLE TASTE SENSE

Pointing out that young children have little taste sense, Mrs. Bullard said her department treats children who have swallowed "everything" from sleeping pills, digitalis, turpentine, stove oil, nail polish and polish remover, model airplane glue, cigarettes and ashes, mothballs or flakes, iodine, bleach, cleaning products and carbon tetrachloride.

Mrs. Corbett listed a number of injuries which persons can suffer in their own homes, such as catching fingers in doors, slipping in the bath, lunging to catch glass or china dishes when falling, arms caught in washing machines and banging on glass doors or windows to open them.

Telephone number for the poison control centre is EV 4-4141.

Chickens

Killer Dogs Choosey

Dogs which invade Saanich chicken farms show a high degree of discrimination in choosing their feathered victims. Coun. Leslie Passmore told council last night.

During discussion of a claim for compensation under the "Sheep Protection Act" for the loss of 15 chickens to a marauding dog, municipal clerk Gordon Hayward pointed out that two scales of compensation exist, one for old birds and a higher one for young ones.

"But they never kill the old hens," Coun. Passmore cracked. "The dog goes around just picking the young ones."

Saanich council last night strengthened its controversial commercial vehicle licensing bylaw but agreed to throw the whole question open to a discussion with truck operators.

The bylaw, which requires all vehicles making deliveries within the municipality to bear Saanich licences, was challenged recently by a Victoria firm and amended last night to prevent a recurrence of the firm's success in getting a charge dismissed.

TRUCKERS INVITED

But truck operators have been invited to attend the next meeting of council's finance committee and Coun. Leslie Passmore indicated he will move to have the bylaw rescinded.

Council last night also:

● Dismissed a claim of $40,000 against the municipality for defacement of property at Vanalman and Patricia Bay Highway.

● Moved to hold a second public hearing on establishment of an exclusively industrial zone west of Douglas and north of Tolmie.

● Approved in principle the granting of $90,000 over a period of five years to the Victoria University building fund.

● Ruled against exempting church halls from municipal taxation.

● Approved erection of a second bronze plaque at the Memorial Gore commemorating the dead of the Second World War and the Korean conflict.

● Council refused to "recognize" the $40,000 claim of Kuldeep Singh Bains, who said that a 30-foot easement and drainage ditch through his land "will virtually completely destroy (its) . . . value."

NEW HEARING

A second public hearing on the industrial zone was necessary, Reeve George Chatterton told council, because of changes made in the zoning proposal since an earlier hearing.

Major change in the plan is to allow the continuance of commercial zoning along the west side of Douglas Street.

'No' to Nutrias

Guffaws Weren't Enough

A would-be nutria rancher's description of the animals he wants to raise won him a hearty guffaw from Saanich councillors last night—but no permit to raise them.

When councillors asked him to describe nutria, K. G. Botte, 856 Claremont, said they have "a head like a groundhog, a tail like a rat, front feet like a monkey and hind feet like a duck."

After a good laugh, council ruled Mr. Botte's three-acre property was in a fast-developing better-class residential area and denied him authority to build pens in which to keep the fur-bearing animals.

'Rabble' of Children Lose Their Hoop

An angry and determined delegation of Simcoe Street residents won a victory yesterday: the basketball standard outside the fence of Macdonald Park will be moved to nearby Todd Park.

The basketball hoop was installed about three months ago, outside the fence but on park property, to take advantage of a blacktopped parking area.

Result, the delegates claimed, was a "regular rabble" of children playing on the street as well as the parking area, sometimes as early as 7:30 on a Sunday morning, sometimes as late as 11 p.m. with illumination from car lights; using language "that is something terrific" sitting on one man's fence "like a bunch of crows," and attracting and exciting great big dogs.

In deciding to move the standard to Todd Park, parks administrator W. H. Warren said establishment of a tennis court which could be used for basketball in the winter "is very desirable in that area," and Ald. M. H. Mooney suggested it would make a good project for a service club.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I am 10 years old and have never written to anyone who runs a newspaper column before in my whole life.

When I read the letter from the girl who was ashamed because her mother is 41 years old and expecting a new baby I just had to tell you what happened in our family.

When my mother was 43 and my father was 48 my mother thought she had a tumor. Then they found out from the doctor in charge of babies that I was ordered. They were very surprised because they had put in lots of orders before but God did not fill them.

I am very glad I am here. My mother and dad call me their special bonus from heaven because I was born on their 20th wedding anniversary. Thank you very much and yours truly. —SURPRISE PACKAGE.

Leave Kids at Home

Dear Ann Landers: The man I am going with has been married twice before and so have I. We were both young and foolish and are sure that this marriage is for keeps. We want to have a nice church wedding because neither of us has ever had one.

Do you think it would be all right if my fiancé's 5-year-old son served as ringbearer and my 6-year-old daughter was the flower girl? Thank you.—TRY-ING AGAIN.

Dear Trying: Please leave the little kids at home. It is, in my opinion, poor taste to permit children to participate in a wedding ceremony of this type.

And for the same four-cent stamp, I'll give you some more advice. A pair of two-time losers should be married as inconspicuously as possible. I suggest the clergyman's study.

Making Fool of Himself

Dear Ann: I've read about such things but I never thought it would happen to me.

We've been married 30 years and have grandchildren. My husband is 54 and was always a good husband and father, a non-drinker and a pillar of the church.

I'm afraid George is making a fool of himself over a 21-year-old girl who went to work in his office three months ago. I know she considers him an old man and there's nothing between them.

But he talks about Julia until I could explode. You'd think I was his mother and he was my teen-age son. He tells me what she says, what she wears and how her blue eyes dance. He bought her candy (a box for me, too—"conscience candy" I call it) and has sent her every record he can find with "blue eyes" in it. He even had the nerve to ask me to hunt for more.

I listen patiently and he has no idea how annoyed I am. I'm not worried. Ann. The girl wouldn't have him on a bet. She has several young friends who take her out often.

But I hate to see George make such a sap of himself. The people in the office must think he's gone off his rocker. What shall I say—or do—if anything?—NON-PLUSED.

Dear Non: Be patient, Mom. If you try to wise him up he'll mistake your disgust for jealousy and this would give a harmless affair a new dimension.

One of these days Julia will bat her big blue eyes at George and show him an engagement ring. Then the candy and record routine will end.

What's Cooking!

Cod Most Adaptable

By LOUIS MOORE

For the next few weeks readers will turn more and more to fish which from the earliest times has formed an important part of our diets. Cod is called beef of the sea and it is most adaptable to every form of cooking.

COD FISH CAKES

Cover 1 pound dried salt codfish with cold water and let stand overnight to freshen or put the codfish into a cheese cloth bag and squeeze it in cold water. Drain and flake the cod, removing any bones and skin. Mix the cod with 2 cups fluffy mashed potatoes, 1 beaten egg, 1 tbsp. very finely minced onion, 1 tbsp. finely chopped parsley and a dash pepper.

IN HOT FAT

Form into cakes and fry in hot fat in frying pan until golden brown on one side then turn to brown the other, cook ing about 8 minutes. Drain on absorbent paper. Serve at once with a zesty tomato sauce or sauce creole.

Before frying, the cakes may be dipped in cracker or bread crumbs for a crisper coating.

COD FILLETS WITH SPANISH SAUCE

For 6 servings, purchase 2 pounds cod fillets.

Sautee 1/2 cup finely chopped onion in 3 tbsp. butter until tender but not browned. Blend in 2 tbsp. flour and gradually add 2 cups canned tomatoes, 1/2 cup chopped green pepper, salt to taste, 1/2 tsp sugar, dash pepper, 1/2 bay leaf, 1 whole clove and cook stirring until thickened. Simmer about 5 minutes. Remove bay leaf and cloves.

Arrange cod fillets in well greased shallow baking pan and cover with the sauce. Bake in hot oven (450°F.) for 10 to 15 minutes or until fish flakes easily with a fork. Allow about 10 minutes per inch thickness of fish. Double the time for frozen fillets.

Library Visit Brings Delight

By HELEN R. HEWSON

This week, April 3-9, is Canadian Library Week, a good time to pull our eyes away from the comic pages, the pictorials and the TV screen and take a peek at a book or two.

In Canada the Dominion Bureau of Statistics keeps a watchful eye on our national temperature and pulse rate. One of the more promising reports tells us that "more new public libraries have been established in Canada since 1950 than in any other decade in our history."

But further down the page we read that public libraries in centres of 10,000 population and over, spent $1.37 per person served in the calendar year 1957 (the latest for which complete statistics are available).

Regional and co-operative libraries spent 53 cents per person served, travelling and open shelf libraries 13 cents per person.

Are we starving our minds and our imaginations? We can exist without books but they certainly provide the vitamins and minerals for a healthy cultural diet. How can we enrich this diet?

Perhaps we had better make a fresh start, with the children.

So during this Canadian Library Week take your children and visit your nearest library. You will find much there to astonish and delight the whole family.

Western RED CEDAR Bevel SIDING

"Keystone" clear kiln dried siding is the finest available—a quality material for all applications where perfection is required.

THE LUMBER

Western red cedar lumber is noted for its exceptional durability, light weight and beautiful color, ranging from almost pure white of the narrow

sapwood to reddish brown heartwood. It is very easily worked, is free from pitch, takes and holds stains, paints and enamels excellently, and is superior for gluing.

Because of these qualities, Western red cedar is especially adaptable for use as bevel siding for quality homes.

DURABILITY

Western red cedar is one of the most durable species known. Its heartwood is highly resistant to decay, and can be counted on for long and worthy service where conditions favoring decay prevail.

WEATHERING CHARACTERISTICS

paint or other protective finishes, Western red cedar weathers to an intriguing

gray color having little or no sheen. It is one of the most stable species of lumber, having very little tendency to cup and pull loose from fastenings when exposed to the weather.

INSULATING QUALITIES

Western red cedar has the highest insulating value of all commonly used soft woods—another point in its favor as siding, and of particular importance

when used as roof decking.

Motherly Mistake Census Taker Nearly Taken In

EL PASO, Tex. (UPI) — Mrs. James Hammond, a census taker, went up to a two-story house and knocked on the door but got no answer. As she walked away, a man hurried out and asked if he could help her. "I was just going to ask how many rooms you have," Mrs. Hammond said. "I'm with the Census Bureau," Mrs. Hammond explained. "Oh," said the manager, "this is the Salvation Army home for unwed mothers."

Friendship Harmed

VANCOUVER (CP) — A protest against racial immigration policies in Canada is being sent to Prime Minister Diefenbaker following a regional conference of the United Nations Economic, Scientific and Cultural Organization here.

The letter deprecates the Canadian immigration policy as a major barrier to friendship between Canada and Asian countries.

Show Business

By Dick Williams

Wacky weddings are traditional in show business where entertainers often don't have time for the conventional marriage rituals of other young people. When Doris Day and Marty Melcher decided to get married, for example, they hurried out to Van Nuys, some 10 miles from Hollywood, and found that the city hall sold every kind of licence except marriage. So they had to go to Burbank. About this time, Doris got hungry and insisted that they drive home first so she could make a sandwich. "Imagine anyone being hungry at a time like that!" Doris grinned.

B.C. Indians Integrating

VANCOUVER (CP)—An Indian affairs official says the day is approaching when everyone in British Columbia will have an Indian in the family tree. "Everyone in B.C. will have a certain amount of Indian blood and those who think differently are nuts," said Dean H. Goad, president of the Native Indian Service Council. "There's a good deal of inter-marriage going on now," he said, "and there's even mixing without marriage." He said there are more than 300 illegitimate part-Indian children in Vancouver being cared for by children's aid societies.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The House passed a bill Monday which would admit about 5,000 refugees in European camps to the U.S. during the next 27 months.

Ousted Teacher Wins Sympathy

VANCOUVER (CP)—Irma Rebrin, 33-year-old lecturer in Russian at UBC, said Monday she has received an offer of help from the nephew of UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld in her efforts to stay in Canada.

Miss Rebrin, who has been ordered deported because she does not meet residence qualifications, said she received an offer from Peter Hammarskjöld to supply her with references.

Miss Rebrin, born in China, said she met Mr. Hammarskjöld in Peking, where he was attached to the Swedish embassy. He now is with the ministry of foreign affairs in Stockholm.

Miss Rebrin said she will ask Mr. Hammarskjöld to send references to Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Immigration Minister Fairclough. In Ottawa, Mr. Diefenbaker

Test Ban Near

LONDON (UPI)—High government sources said Monday Britain expected a nuclear test ban treaty draft with the United States and Russia to be completed for signature by mid-summer.

The sources said next month's East-West summit conference might help remove the outstanding differences and clear the way for the final stage of test ban negotiations.

British optimism was said to be based on the assumption that Russia desired a test ban agreement.

One line of British reasoning was that the Soviet might have a theory that a three-power ban would deter the spread of nuclear weapon production in other countries, including Communist China.

Despite the Sino-Russian alliance, Western observers said, the Soviet did not appear eager to see the Chinese equipped with their own atomic weapons.

Herter Hits Nikita

Wrecking Charged To Reds

CHICAGO (UPI)—Secretary of State Christian A. Herter warned yesterday that Soviet threats against West Berlin and "hostile attacks" against the West German government could wreck chances for negotiating East-West arms control agreements.

Herter said there is a "clear relation" between arms control talks and Communist violations or threatened violations of the long-standing East-West agreements on Berlin.

He accused Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and other Soviet leaders of trying "to sow the seeds of suspicion and disunity" among free world allies by attacking the West German government of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer as "militaristic."

Burns Lake Polio Breaks Out Again

Hopes that the recent outbreak of paralytic polio at Burns Lake had run its course were shattered during the weekend when two more victims were admitted to hospital, bringing the local total to 21, the B.C. total to 31.

Stricken were Mrs. Ruth Dick, 26, wife of Rev. Elmer Dick, Burns Lake Mennonite Church minister, and Michael Palmer, 19.

'Ben Hur' Sweeps Board

Heston, Signoret, Winters Academy Award Winners

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Charlton Heston, the chariot-racing early Christian of Ben-Hur, and Simone Signoret, the plump, love-starved wife of Room at the Top, were named the best star performers of 1959 at the academy awards Monday night.

"Ben-Hur," the most expensive movie ever made, was named best picture of the year and won more awards than any other film in academy history—11.

DIARY OF ANNE FRANK

Shelley Winters, the warmly human Jewish housewife of "The Diary of Anne Frank," and Hugh Griffiths, spade-bearded horse-trader of "Ben-Hur," were selected best supporting players at the 32nd annual awards.

Veteran director William Wyler won his third Oscar for "Ben-Hur."

It was a magnificent evening for the chariot epic. The greatest number of Oscars won previously by one film was nine, by "Gigi" last year.

All the major winners won hearty applause from the glittering audience at the Pantages Theatre.

Miss Signoret was also a popular choice. The 39-year-old Parisian, received her award from Rock Hudson and said: "You can't imagine what this means to me, being French."

SHELLEY OVERCOME

Miss Winters couldn't contain her joy at winning the big prize, and wept copiously backstage. She said she had no idea she would win. "I was so nervous I didn't know whether to be sexy or dignified."

Griffith was the only major winner not present for the television awards. The 47-year-old Welshman was in England and his award was accepted by director William Wyler.

A sad note in the Ben-Hur victory was the absence of producer Sam Zimbalist, who died after the film was made. The best picture award was accepted by his widow.

Ben-Hur won in all but one of the categories in which it was nominated. That one is significant writing. Over the protests of Wyler, the Writers Guild of America gave sole writing credit to Karl Tunberg, though Christopher Fry, Gore Vidal and S. N. Behrman and other helped on the script.

ONLY FRY

Heston acknowledged only Fry among the writers in his acceptance speech.

Best song of the year was "High Hopes, from A Hole in the Head. Its writers, James Van Heusen and Sammy Cahn, gave the most appreciated acceptance speech of the night: "Thank," and "You."

"Black Orpheus," the bongobeat product of France's new wave of bright young filmmakers, was named best foreign language film.

No one got greater applause than comedian Bob Hope, who finally got an award after all these years of complaining about the lack of one. He won the Jean Hersholt award for humanitarian service.

Burglary Suspect's Wife Gives Birth in Court

CHICAGO (UPI)—Mrs. Rita Eakes, 17, gave birth to a girl yesterday on a criminal court jurors' table while her husband was being arraigned in the next room on two burglary charges.

"Monday always is a busy day in court," an employee said.

30,000 Flooded Acres Drop Mississippi Level

CHICAGO (AP)—The Mississippi River showed signs of relenting temporarily Monday after punching through a levee into rich Illinois farmland. But the Missouri raged on.

By veering into 30,000 acres of bottomland near Meyer, Ill., devastating cropland and routing livestock, the Mississippi slowly dropped, officials said, reassuring other communities downstream.

They stressed, however, that the respite might be brief and that another rise could begin after one or two days.

Hundreds of the 2,500 residents in Canton, Mo., fled Sunday, abandoning low-lying homes.

Another Negro Dies, 10 Hurt As Clubs, Whips, Rifles Used

CAPETOWN (CP)—A Negro was killed and about 10 others injured in widely-separated clashes with police Monday as the South African government launched a campaign to get Negroes back on their jobs.

Reuters reported the man died in Clermont township outside Durban where club-wielding police charged a crowd of 3,000 who refused an order to go back to work. Several Negroes were injured.

In the nearby trouble spot of Nyanga township, a police sergeant opened fire at almost point-blank range into a Negro crowd, wounding five men.

TROUBLEMAKER

The shooting followed action by police with clubs against "troublemakers and open intimidators" in the township. A Negro woman and three men were taken to hospital with head injuries.

Police officials said the sergeant later used his pistol against an unruly crowd of Negroes who threatened to attack.

DRIVE OPENS

The violence came as the government opened a drive starting at dawn to get Negroes to end their stay-home campaign for greater civil rights.

Four air force planes flew over Clermont township and Cato Manor, near Durban, and "bombed" the native settlements with 200,000 pink, green and yellow pamphlets warning the Negroes to maintain order.

BUSES STONED

But in S. J. Smith township outside Durban, none of 5,000 workers reported on the job Monday. Buses were stoned.

The Associated Press reported scores were injured by police clubs and gunfire Monday as authorities cracked down on Capetown area Negroes.

While the authorities declined to give a full account of what went on, it was clear that police had handed out rough treatment to all Negroes they found not working Monday.

RUBBER WHIPS

The editor of a Liberal party magazine, Contact, said he saw police using sjamboks (whips made of strips of rubber) on Negroes near Calderon Square, only a few blocks from the centre of Capetown.

At least 35 were reported wounded by gunfire. Hundreds were clubbed by police batons Monday.

A nurse at hospital in the Nyanga Negro settlement said there were so many victims of beatings that she ran out of bandages.

EVERYBODY

"Police and army people seem to be beating up everybody," she reported by telephone. Headquarters of the Liberal party, an organization of whites and Negroes favoring conciliation between the races, received a stream of reports on raids throughout the area.

One informant telephoned that police had been beating up "almost every African they can see, and shooting at random."

To Visit Queen

Colorful welcome is planned in London today for arrival of French President Charles de Gaulle. Although he is officially visiting the Queen, de Gaulle is expected to press Prime Minister Macmillan for a greater share in Britain and United States atomic secrets.

Church Fails Negroes

CAPETOWN, South Africa (UPI)—Anglican archbishop Jostes de Blank yesterday confirmed reports of growing anti-Christian feeling among Africans.

"I'm not surprised," the archbishop said. "Explorer Stanley Livingstone promised commerce and Christianity to the Africans. They've got commerce, but they've not seen Christianity."

"When I came here 2 1/2 years ago I looked for something which might enable a Christian to believe in apartheid," said the archbishop, an outspoken foe of South Africa's racial policies. "I now know there is no mitigating factor."

Police 'Protect' Rule by Blacks Seen in Africa

Rule by Blacks Seen in Africa

JOHANNESBURG (AP)—External Affairs Minister Eric Louw charged Monday critics of his government would hand over South Africa to a "black proletariat" to destroy what the whites have built.

Louw assailed as hypocrites the action of the United Nations security council Friday in urging South Africa to abolish its policy of apartheid or segregation.

Speaking to an audience that included many ambassadors at the opening of the government pavilion at Johannesburg's Union Exposition, Louw declared:

It's the Sin Not the Sum

VANCOUVER (CP)—It's the sin, not the sum, that counts.

Ralph Smillie, 48, was given a three-month jail sentence today for passing a bad cheque for $2,522 in payment for a used car.

David Goddard, 29, was jailed three months after admitting he passed a no-account cheque for $14 at a grocery market.

"We have a foretaste of what would then happen when we see the ruins of churches, schools and even clinics which were erected for the benefit of the Bantu (Negro) people and buried down last week."

"Then there is also another side to the picture as well. The great bulk of the Bantu are law-abiding, decent people. That is why hundreds are returning to the Bantu reserves."

"When the shock of these happenings of the last two weeks has passed, they will not be so easily swayed by agitators, Bantu or white."

"They will not be cowed by gangster organizations. They must be made to realize that the white man's police force is there to protect them."

You're Getting Old

Dr. H. Marvin Pollard of the University of Michigan Medical School, described the typical ulcer patient as male, young, in the competitive stage of a career and a heavy smoker.

"He is also a hard worker, intelligent, intense and probably lacking in self confidence," he added.

The best way to avoid ulcers, Pollard said, is to avoid excesses and be self-confident.

IT BEATS ME

By Jim Tang

Biggest unanswered question of the moment in the affairs of the world which touch this department has to do with whether or not Victoria is to remain a part of the Western Hockey League next season.

Everyone is wondering, everyone is asking and most everyone is guessing. But about the only thing that is certain at this time is that no one, but no one, knows for certain—not even Jim Pigott, who owns the Victoria franchise, or Hal Laycoe, who has managed Pigott's operation here and coached his hockey club this season.

Some reasonable deductions, however, can be gleaned from this silence of uncertainty. They are: (a) that Victoria will almost certainly remain in the WHL if there is no expansion to include the California cities of Los Angeles and San Francisco; (b) that our chances are still excellent if there is expansion and the Los Angeles franchise goes to someone else except Pigott; and (c) that if Los Angeles and San Francisco join the WHL, and Pigott is successful in his bid for the Los Angeles club, our professional hockey future is a bit uncertain.

At the moment, the best sum-up is that we have much better than an even chance of having a 1960-61 club, that because the fine play of the Cougars in playdowns is causing a rebirth of hockey interest here which must have interesting connotations for anyone wondering about whether Victoria would be a good risk next season.

San Francisco is probably the key to the California situation. The league final was extended to a best-of-nine series with two games in Los Angeles solely to try and sell the WHL brand of the game there. And what information is available indicates that Los Angeles is likely ready and willing to become part of the WHL. But nothing is clear yet as regards San Francisco, and it wouldn't be feasible to go with only the one California club. Travelling costs would be prohibitive and scheduling problems, already bad, would be well impossible to solve.

As for who would operate the Los Angeles franchise, that's another big unanswered question. Pigott, already on the scene and anxious to get the reaction of Los Angeles fans to the Wednesday and Thursday games, is believed to have the inside track. He is getting opposition from another group, believed to be backed by Eddie Shore and supported by Coley Hall, which could explain in part why the Cougars this season have been the target of so much Vancouver vituperation.

A two-thirds majority is needed in WHL voting to decide who will get the Los Angeles franchise, should one be granted for next season, and the struggle for necessary support is certainly going on behind the scenes.

If Los Angeles joins the WHL and Pigott wins the right to operate the franchise there, all is not necessarily lost as regards our hockey future.

Pigott moved into Victoria by taking over a club which had little future at all and while he is not at all likely to show a profit on his operation, order has been restored out of what amounted to chaos. Fan interest has been renewed and the Victoria franchise will again have its two sponsors with which to bargain for playing help from National Hockey League clubs. The city is again a good hockey risk and if Pigott does move to Los Angeles there has to be a good chance that someone else can see a good chance of success here.

Sitting in the most favored position of all at the moment is Laycoe, who has played down his part in the success of his club this season but whose able job hasn't gone unnoticed by either his employer or others who would like very much to be signing his salary cheques next season.

Deservedly so, Laycoe has no worries at all about his hockey future. Regardless of where he operates, Pigott would prefer it if he could retain the services of his present manager-coach. But he has some considerable opposition. The Portland group which has the Rose City franchise all set for next season, is every bit as anxious to get Laycoe's signature on a contract and it is suspected they have made him a hard-to-turn-down offer. At least one presumes that Harry Glickman didn't come to the city last week just to watch the Cougars complete their sweep over Seattle Totems.

And then there is Victoria. Laycoe, of course, isn't saying a thing about his future plans at the moment but he has made no secret of the fact that he would hardly call it bad luck if developments made it necessary for him to continue to call Victoria home.

"I like it here," he will say and all other things being equal, that would probably be the deciding factor. But Portland is bigger than Victoria and Los Angeles bigger than Portland and both may be better bets than Victoria for a big hockey future. Our chance of keeping him would have to rate lower than our chances of keeping professional hockey, but...

Labatts Lead In Semi-Final

NANAIMO—Overtime goals by Don Smith and Don Ashbee powered Nanaimo Labatts to a 6-4 win over Lacombe Rockets Monday night and a 2-1 lead in the best-of-five Western Canada intermediate hockey semi-final.

Smith fired the winning goal after 37 seconds of overtime. Ashbee added the insurance goal with just one second remaining in the 10-minute period.

TOMORROW

Fourth game of the series will be played Wednesday at 8:30 p.m. at Nanaimo. Winner of the Nanaimo-Lacombe series meets either Fort Frances Canadians or Dauphin Kings in the Western Canada final. Fort Frances presently leads that semi-final, 2-0.

Bud Dumont was the leading Nanaimo scorer last night with two goals. Smith, Ashbee, Bruno Furian and Red Wilgress added singles.

Ed Young led Lacombe with two goals. Goalie Murray Dadds stopped 41 shots for the visitors.

Off-Target Evcoes Aim to Aim Better

Evcoes regained the Victoria and District Soccer League leadership Sunday but in the process displayed a few rough edges that must be smoothed before the coming weekend.

Coach Len Scott's Evcoes downed Esquimalt, 4-1, Sunday at Central Park to move back into their familiar first place position ahead of Canadian Scottish.

However, an erratic shooting demonstration by members of his forward line brought a promise from Scott that practice time this week will be used mainly to correct the situation.

NEXT TARGET

Evcoes host Vancouver Carlings Saturday afternoon at Royal Athletic Park in the Province Cup final. It marks the first time a Victoria team has reached the final in 18 years, and the first time the final game has ever been held on Vancouver Island.

Centre-forward George Paul led Evcoes to their Sunday win, scoring three goals. Alex Stewart scored the other.

Duncan Champions

Sox, Going for Power, Add Sievers to Cast

Chicago White Sox, apparently sacrificing some of the speed and defence which featured their American League pennant win last year, have added another slow-footed veteran slugger to their lineup.

They clinaxed a persistent battle yesterday when they swung a deal with Washington Senators which brought them 33-year-old Roy Sievers, an outfielder and/or first baseman.

To get him, the Sox gave up catcher Earl Battey, rookie-infielder Don Mincher and cash estimated at $150,000.

Sievers joins a line-up which includes Ted Kluszewski and Sherm Lollar two oldsters who also rely on power rather than speed to get on base. And since the end of last season, the White Sox have also picked up outfielder Minnie Minoso, fleet but getting on, and third-baseman Gene Freese, a hard-hitter but a bit of a defensive liability.

YANKEES OUT?

It was the second deal of the week for the Senators, who apparently aren't going to make a deal with the New York Yankees after all.

On Sunday, the Washington club moved to fix a second-base problem by getting veteran Bill Gardner from Baltimore in exchange for catcher Clint Courtney and infielder Ron Samford.

LIONEL CONACHER, Jr., son of Canada's late "Big Train," has been signed by Montreal Alouettes of the Big Four. Conacher starred at full-back last season with University of Western Ontario and will be reunited at Montreal with Meco Poliziani, his fullback running mate... their 10-0 defeat Sunday by Vancouver City following hard upon an 11-0 trouncing by New Westminster Royals has cost Hungaria their Pacific Coast Soccer League franchise.

Pedro Van Dorty, millionaire Argentine automobile dealer, was killed Sunday when thrown from his car during the running of the Grand Prix.

'We'll Be on the Plane' Only Laycoe Prediction

"I've never made a prediction in my life," manager-coach Hal Laycoe parried last night as he put the finishing touches to arrangements which will have him and his Cougars heading by air toward Los Angeles this afternoon.

"But," he added, almost reluctantly in his ever-present fear that someone might misconstrue a statement as optimism, "I will say that the boys have played better than they did Saturday night."

Saturday night was the night that the Cougars ran their playoff streak to five games by knocking off the league-champion Canucks, 3-2, in overtime to take a 1-0 lead in the best-of-nine Western Hockey League final.

The second and third games will be at Los Angeles tomorrow and Thursday, the fourth game here next Saturday and the fifth in Vancouver the following Tuesday. If more are needed, they will be Wednesday, Friday and Saturday of next week, the middle game in Vancouver.

A SLIP?

Getting back to Laycoe, while he never ventured a prediction there could be something revealing in his statement that "you must know they (the Canucks) have never really been tested all season."

"They've never had a game during the schedule that they really had to win and they got the jump on Edmonton in the semi-finals. Now, if we can keep the pressure on them..."

He never got by there. It was beginning to sound almost like a prediction.

There is no doubt, however, that the Victoria coach wants to win this one more than any other series he has been involved in during a lengthy hockey career. He is nothing over a CONTINUED allegations from Vancouver that the Cougars are always resorting to defensive hockey and are keeping fans away in other cities.

"That's... that's..." he fumed, unable to find a word which could adequately describe his feelings.

"I was three years in New Westminster and we had the most wide-open club in the league. I'm not coaching a bit differently now. Talk about defensive hockey and you have to think about the Canucks. Look at the records, they always lead the league in fewest goals against. They don't know any other way to play the game."

His club starts the California jaunt in good condition. Goalie Marcel Pelletier's injured eye is on the mend and the rest of the club is in fine fettle. The Cougars will be accompanied on the trip by Arnie Schmutz, the little firebrand who was their sparkplug until he was put out of action for the season with a skull fracture.

"That little guy will help us by just being there," Laycoe said.

The Cougars leave Seattle early this evening, should be having their dinner about three hours later. They'll arrive back home Friday evening.

Only Sponsor Can Save Soccer Treat for City

Unless a sponsor is found within 48 hours, Victoria soccer fans are going to have to go to Vancouver to watch Hearts of Midlothian, one of two British eleven's making a Canadian tour this spring.

Without a touring team for several years, Victoria got its chance to watch an international soccer match this year when Dave Fryatt, chairman of the B.C. Football Commission, was successful in his fight to book a team here.

The game was tentatively set for Monday, June 6, and all that was needed to make it definite was to find a sponsor willing to underwrite the difference in the unlikely event that game receipts would not amount to the $3,000 guarantee.

Victoria officials were unsuccessful in finding a sponsor and the match has been cancelled—unless a sponsor can be found before tomorrow, in which case there is every chance the match may be rescheduled.

As matters stand now, Hearts will play Manchester City at Empire Stadium on Saturday, May 28, and then meet the B.C. All-Stars on the following Saturday, June 4.

Northwest League Includes Victoria

Formation of an eight-team Northwest Baseball League, which will include a Victoria entry, was accomplished at a meeting in Seattle Sunday.

Opening games in the semi-professional league will be at Bellingham with the Victoria entry providing the opposition on May 21 and 22. The Bells will open the Victoria season on Saturday, May 28, when a split doubleheader has been scheduled.

TWO DIVISIONS

The league has been divided into North and South Divisions of four clubs each. With Victoria and Bellingham in the North are Cheney Studs of Seattle and Kent, Centralia and Aberdeen are the only two South entries named so far, league officials planning to announce the other two clubs as soon as final arrangements have been completed.

President of the league is Joe Budnick, veteran Seattle baseball man. Ed Vervynck of Seattle is secretary-treasurer while each club will name one director to the executive.

Wally Thomson will represent the city line.

Schedule arrangements, not yet complete, call for Victoria to make one trip to each of the other seven league cities. The South Division clubs will make one trip to Victoria but the Bells, Studs and Kent will be seen in action here several times during the season of approximately 30 games.

Art Worth selected some weeks back, will be the manager of the Victoria club, which will draw its players from this area and be sponsored by the Victoria and District Amateur Baseball Association.

The VDBA will continue to operate a four-team senior league to take care of players graduating from juvenile leagues and to develop players for the inter-city club. The senior league will play its games during the week and on weekends when the inter-city club is away from home.

Victoria Optimists had the most impressive victory, a 6-0 decision over Nanaimo that gave the locals the Division II Island title.

Oak Bay captured the Division IV championship with a 1-0 win over Nanaimo. Bob Moffatt scored the Oak Bay goal but the key figure in the win was goaltender James Angus.

Ferry Starts Friday

Festivities to Begin Quadra Island Run

A gala opening with at least three cabinet ministers and hundreds of other invited guests in attendance is planned for the inaugural run of the new Quadra Island government ferry service on Friday.

Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi is expected to officiate at the ribbon cutting ceremony at the new Campbell River wharf at 2 p.m. Recreation Minister Earle Westwood and Works Minister

W. N. Chant are both expected to attend. The Campbell River wharf is situated at the new Tye Plaza which was built over the water in Campbell River on an earth and rock fill project. There is also a new wharf at Quathiaski Cove on Quadra Island and both docks cost the provincial government a total of $40,000.

The new $185,000 ferry which will carry 15 cars, 99 passengers and is 110 feet long will operate 16 hours a day with trips about every hour.

It is expected to open up Quadra Island as a new vacationland, comparable to Salt Spring in the Gulf Islands.

FREE TRIPS

On Friday the ferry will operate free trips bringing passengers from Quadra Island to take part in the ceremony and then taking the official party and hundreds of others over to Quadra Island for a motorcade around the island, followed by a banquet at 5 p.m.

Quadra Island Ratepayers' Association is arranging the celebration.

START IMMEDIATELY

The provincial recreation department plans to take advantage of the new ferry service by starting work immediately on development of a provincial park on the one-mile-long sandy Rebecca Spit on the east side of the island. It will be developed this year mainly as a marine park and next year campsites are expected to be included for motoring vacationers.

Expert Talks on Alcoholics

'They Never Grew Up'

Addiction to alcohol, drugs, tranquilizers, cigarettes and coffee all stem from similar causes, W. G. Wilson, education director of the Alcohol Research and Education Council, said last night.

"It is a physical, mental, social and spiritual illness and a combination of these factors overcomes a person's resistance to strain," he said, at a meeting of Victoria Douglas Rotary Club.

"The real cause of alcoholism is a personality deficiency. There are people who have really never grown up and so they have started to use alcohol or some other drug and they find themselves completely dependent on it."

Mr. Wilson said studies had proved some persons were alcoholics before they had taken a single drink. Others became alcoholics on one drink.

Work of his organization in schools stresses personality development. Mr. Wilson said studies have shown that 83 per cent of alcoholics treated at one United States clinic began drinking before they were 20 years of age.

Parley Held On Court

Victoria alderman Lily Wilson and Oak Bay councillor Allan Cox met with officials of the attorney-general's department yesterday to discuss costs of establishment of a family and juvenile court.

Esquimalt Tons Of Junk

Junk by the ton was hauled away from Esquimalt homes and businesses yesterday by municipal trucks marking the start of the annual council-sponsored clean-up campaign. The drive runs all week.

Reeve A. C. Wurtele last night urged all residents to take advantage of the free offer. A call to the municipal engineers' office will bring a truck to their doorstep within 24 hours to make the pick-up.

It's a matter of civic pride, said the reeve. He added: "We hope people will get rid of any old junk now... and not try to dump it in the bushes someplace later. We would be delighted to haul it away for them."

Drop in Building

Officials Blame 'Tight Money'

"Tight money" was blamed by officials in two municipalities yesterday for a recession in building in March, but construction in Victoria city bounced ahead.

Saanich issued 76 permits in March for construction valued at $507,100, compared with 125 the previous March for construction totalling $970,000.

The March permits brought the Saanich totals for the first three months of the year to 191 permits and $1,327,986, compared with 301 permits and $2,427,080 in the first three months of 1959.

The Saanich permits included 37 for dwellings this March, 87 in March, 1959.

Victoria, on the other hand, issued 582 permits in March for construction valued at $741,692, compared with 532 permits and $452,312 in March of last year. And Victoria's 1960 three-month totals were 1,586 permits and $2,213,378, compared with 1,492 permits and $1,849,624 in 1959.

Esquimalt had a freakishly poor month — 10 permits for construction valued at $28,690, compared with 21 permits and $132,790 in March last year.

Three-month totals this year were 39 permits and $247,750; last year, 52 permits and $326,640.

Figures for Oak Bay were not available.

City Park Heliport

A new era in inter-city travel may open here at 10 a.m. today when a nine-passenger Sikorsky helicopter touches down at Macdonald Park in James Bay.

The turbine-powered, amphibious craft may be a forerunner of a fleet of S-61 Sikorsky helicopters plying the downtown-Victoria to downtown-Vancouver air route.

Today's flight from Vancouver International Airport to downtown Victoria by a smaller version of the U.S.-built machine will be the first in a series of test hops by Okanagan Helicopters Ltd., to prove the feasibility of the inter-city service.

An official of the company said late yesterday that today's flight is scheduled to last just 30 minutes.

On board today's flight will be Okanagan Helicopters' president Glen W. McPherson, as well as Sikorsky representatives and observers for an aircraft engine manufacturer.

The flight is scheduled to be met by Mayor Percy Scurrell and other civic dignitaries.

Mr. McPherson told the annual meeting of his company last year that fares on a downtown-to-downtown helicopter service would probably be equal to present air fares plus airport limousine charges.

Officials of the company have looked over heliport sites in the James Bay area and are reported anxious to find a waterfront site so that the amphibious capability of the Sikorsky can be used.

Okanagan has filed an application for the Victoria-Vancouver service with the Air Transport Board and will launch the service provided route studies and the economics of the Sikorsky craft show that the operation can be run without a direct subsidy.

Earlier the company had considered inaugurating the run with the Fairley Roto-dyne but later learned that it will not be available until 1964.

2,000 Women Needed For Varsity 'Mop-Up'

Nearly 2,000 women are urgently needed to carry out a "mop-up" canvass April 25 and 26 for the Victoria University building fund drive.

The situation — with less than three weeks to go before the start of the final residential canvass — was described by organizer Mrs. Daryl Elford yesterday as "an emergency."

An earlier appeal brought forward a number of volunteers and some women's organizations are expected to provide other canvassers.

The residential canvass will be the final operation in the current campaign for expansion of Victoria University. Its aim is to reach those who haven't had an opportunity to contribute towards the $2,500,000 campaign goal.

Campaign chairman R. B. Wilson and E. W. Arnott, chairman of the national corporation's subcommittee, said yesterday they were "satisfied and encouraged" with results of their nine-day tour of Eastern Canada to solicit donations.

Parks committee also received a petition of 158 names for its retention, but these names, the delegates claimed, were secured "in the streets behind where they have nothing to do with it."

PORT ALBERNI—Alex McKenzie, 44-year-old small logging operator, was chosen candidate by Alberni District Liberal Association at a meeting here Saturday night.

Mr. McKenzie, whose grandparents sailed around Cape Horn in the 1880s to be among the early settlers of this district, promised a "real sales campaign to sell myself and the Liberal party" in the next provincial election.

In his acceptance speech he advocated establishment of a technical school in this area.

Guest speaker at the meeting was Forrest Shaw, former member of the B.C. Power Commission, recently nominated Liberal candidate for Victoria.

PORT ALBERNI—Two young men were knocked from a motorbike at Tenth Avenue and Burde Street intersection late Monday afternoon and sent to hospital.

In West Coast General Hospital with a possible broken leg is Fred Deluca, Alberni. Miro Benetti, believed to have been driving the bike, was later released.

According to RCMP the bike apparently entered the intersection without stopping.

It was struck by a social welfare department car driven by Tegwyn Evans. The bike was carried some 100 feet under the car after the two riders were knocked to the sidewalk.

NANAIMO—A Cobble Hill chihuahua owned by Mrs. Elsie Hammond was judged the best dog in show by Kenneth Richman of Sidney Sunday.

Mr. Hammond's dog was one of a record-breaking entry which competed in Nanaimo Kennel Club's dog show and obedience trials.

Top dog in obedience trial was the German shepherd owned by I. Beggs of Chemainus. The shepherd earned 197 points out of a possible 200. A. H. Tyrell, Nanaimo, was judge.

NANAIMO—The capacity crowd which attended Nanaimo Symphony Orchestra's spring concert Sunday vouched for the continued success and popularity of the orchestra.

Australian conductor Sir Bernard Hienze, who is conducting a Dominion-wide survey of 21 names for removal of the basketball standard. Parks committee also received a petition of 158 names for its retention, but these names, the delegates claimed, were secured "in the streets behind where they have nothing to do with it."

PARKSVILLE—Dudley Wickett, of Parksville, and Fred Peterson, of Combs, were elected as directors of the Golden Age Housing Society at the recent general meeting. Both were elected for three-year terms and succeed Frank Garrison of Parksville and A. J. Wickens, QC (retired) of Little Qualicum who did not seek re-election.

George Baxter, of Parksville, was re-elected to the directorate for a two-year term.

DUNCAN—Largest girl guide-owned campsite in southern Vancouver Island will be opened near here on May 15.

Final details are being worked out now, said Mrs. Jack Phillips, divisional commissioner for Cowichan, yesterday.

The opening will be held during a family-day picnic.

The property, with second-growth timber on it, borders the Koksilah River at Cowichan Station, three miles south of here.

PORT ALBERNI—The unemployment situation here is normal, or a little better than normal for this time of year, according to a report from the local National Employment Service office.

A total of 909 persons, including approximately 180 fishermen were in receipt of unemployment benefits as of March 31, compared to a total of 1,100 at the same date in 1959.

Unplaced applicants numbered 1,064 as compared to 1,250 March 31, 1959. Unplaced applicants include not only those in benefits but also those who are seeking a change of job.

In March, 1960, $95,457 was paid out in benefits through the local office. In March of last year, payments amounted to $99,905.

DUNCAN—A movie on the work done under the Unemployment Services will be shown to members of the committee here today.

Fellowship chairman Dr. C. J. G. McKenzie said the meeting is open to anyone interested in the film taken by Dr. Lotta Hitchmanova on the foster plan and other world-wide projects.

CHEMAINUS—Soapbox racing dates for this year are May 15, June 12, July 24, Aug. 21 and Sept. 11.

DUNCAN—Mrs. George Highmore of Cowichan Bay, most seriously injured of four in an accident Saturday, is in "fairly good" condition at hospital.

King's Daughters' Hospital officials said she had improved enough from injuries received — when thrown at least 30 feet from her husband's wrecked car — to see a few close relations over the weekend.

Her husband, a Cowichan Bay waterworks trustee, is described as being in good condition. He, too, was allowed to see friends.

DUNCAN—An Eagle Heights motorist who said he stopped before proceeding through an intersection against a red light failed to prove his point why he should not be fined in court yesterday.

Douglas Cox, a 10-g-g-r, pleaded not guilty to a charge of failing to stop April 1 at Station and Craig which is marked with signals.

An RCMP constable said Cox drove through the red light and later admitted he didn't see it.

"The lights are there for the safety of the public. They must be obeyed. If you don't, that's why accidents happen," said Magistrate A. C. Sutton.

PORT ALBERNI—A local man was charged Monday morning within a few minutes of an accident on Tenth Avenue-North with failing to remain at the scene.

Charles Edward Venables pleaded guilty to the charge before Magistrate W. E. MacLeod and was fined $100 and his licence was suspended for two months.

According to information given in court, the accused's car had struck the rear end of a vehicle operated by Charles Buffie with some $350 damage resulting to Buffie's car. Two passengers in the latter car were shaken up but without apparent injuries, police said.

ALBERNI—Damages were estimated at $400 in a weekend collision at the junction of Alberni and Port Alberni highways. A Nanaimo man is charged with failing to stop at a stop sign as a result of the accident.

Douglas Frank Marling, Nanaimo, had entered the intersection from the Alberni road when his car hit the side of a vehicle being driven by Lorne Berg of Port Saskatchewan, Alberta, as it turned into the Port Alberni cut-off.

The charge against Marling was waived to Nanaimo.

ALBERNI: Roman Coupal was convicted in Alberni court of obstructing a police officer in performance of his duties and was fined $50.

PARKSVILLE—Slightly above average rainfall was recorded for the month of March in the Parksville area according to weatherman G. M. Bernard who recorded 2.80 inches of precipitation including snow compared to the ten year average of 2.47 inches.

New Varsity Librarian To Plunge Into Planning

Victoria University last night appointed a head librarian whose first duty will be to guide planning of the new $1,400,000 library expected to open on the campus by late 1962.

Picked for the job starting

July 1 was D. W. Halliwell, at present assistant librarian at the University of Saskatchewan.

Principal Dr. W. W. Hickman said construction of the new library building should start within a year. The library now occupies part of the Ewing building and in the past eight years has grown from 10,000 volumes to 50,000.

When the new building is opened the space now used for the library will be converted into about one dozen classrooms to meet sharply increased student enrollment.

Mr. Halliwell holds BA and MA degrees in English from Saskatchewan and went on to take his bachelor of library science at University of Toronto. He has 11 years' experience in library work.

The new library along with a new science building and a classroom and office block will be built with money raised by the current $2,500,000 Victoria University building fund drive. The provincial government will contribute a matching dollar grant.

Bennett Due Back In Office Today

Premier Bennett is expected to be back at his desk today after enjoying a two-week vacation following the proroguing of the legislature.

It will mark the first time the premier has returned to his office for any prolonged stretch of work since he underwent a kidney operation in January just before the opening of the legislature.

He made several appearances at the legislative sessions, but was never present for any great periods except when he delivered his budget address.

He is expected to be at work in his office for a couple of weeks and then take a boat trip through B.C.'s inside coastal passage and then in May and early June make a goodwill visit to Britain with his advisers.

'Rabble' of Children Lose Their Hoop

An angry and determined delegation of Simcoe Street residents won a victory yesterday: the basketball standard outside the fence of Macdonald Park will be moved to nearby Todd Park.

The basketball hoop, was installed about three months ago, outside the fence but on park property, to take advantage of a blacktopped parking area.

Result, the delegates claimed, was a "regular rabble" of children playing on the street as well as the parking area, sometimes as early as 7.30 on a Sunday morning, sometimes as late as 11 p.m. with illumination from car lights; using language "that is something terrific" sitting on one man's fence "like a bunch of crows," and attracting and exciting great big dogs.

They appeared in support of a petition of 21 names for removal of the basketball standard. Parks committee also received a petition of 158 names for its retention, but these names, the delegates claimed, were secured "in the streets behind where they have nothing to do with it."

In deciding to move the standard to Todd Park, parks administrator W. H. Warren said establishment of a tennis court which could be used for basketball in the winter "is very desirable in that area."

and Ald. M. H. Money suggested it would make a good project for a service club.

POLICE 'BEATING EVERYONE' IN AFRICA WORK CAMPAIGN

Test Ban Near

LONDON (UPI)—High government sources said Monday Britain expected a nuclear test ban treaty draft with the United States and Russia to be completed for signature by mid-summer.

The sources said next month's East-West summit conference might help remove the outstanding differences and clear the way for the final stage of test ban negotiations.

British optimism was said to be based on the assumption that Russia desired a test ban agreement.

One line of British reasoning was that the Soviet might have a theory that a three-power ban would deter the spread of nuclear weapons production in other countries, including Communist China.

Despite the Sino-Russian alliance, Western observers said, the Soviet did not appear eager to see the Chinese equipped with their own atomic weapons.

Road Toll Skyrockets

Traffic fatalities in British Columbia during February increased by 216 per cent compared to the same month in 1959, the Motor Vehicles Branch said Monday. It was 19 this year to six last.

Bedbugs Doomed

TOKYO (AP)—Bedbugs replaced sparrows Monday on Communist China's list of leading public pests.

Mrs. Li Teh-chuan, Red China's public health minister, told the National Peoples Congress parliament in Peking that one of the country's major tasks is "conducting a nationwide health campaign to wipe out four pests"—flies, mosquitoes, rats and bedbugs.

Sub Grounds In Storm

CAMPBELLTOWN, Scotland (AP)—The 2,000-ton British submarine Narwhal, with a crew of 70 men from NATO countries aboard, ran aground in a gale sweeping west Scotland Monday night.

The admiralty ordered three frigates to the rescue.

'Ben Hur' Sweeps Board

Heston, Signoret, Winters Academy Award Winners

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Charlton Heston, the chariot-racing early Christian of "Ben-Hur," and Simone Signoret, the plump, love-starved wife of "Room at the Top," were named the best star performers of 1959 at the academy awards Monday night.

"Ben-Hur," the most expensive movie ever made, was named best picture of the year and won more awards than any other film in academy history—11.

DIARY OF ANNE FRANK

Shelley Winters, the warmly human Jewish housewife of "The Diary of Anne Frank," and Hugh Griffiths, spade-headed horse-trader of "Ben-Hur," were selected best supporting players at the 32nd annual awards.

Veteran director William Wyler won his third Oscar for "Ben-Hur."

It was a magnificent evening for the chariot epic. The greatest number of Oscars won previously by one film was nine, by "Gigi" last year.

All the major winners won hearty applause from the glittering audience at the Pantages Theatre.

Mrs. Signoret was also a popular choice. The 39-year-old Parisian received her award from Rock Hudson and said: "You can't imagine what this means to me, being French."

SHELLEY OVERCOME

Miss Winters couldn't contain her joy at winning the big prize, and wept copiously backstage. She said she had no idea she would win.

"I was so nervous I didn't know whether to be sexy or dignified."

Griffith was the only major winner not present for the television awards. The 47-year-old Welshman was in England and his award was accepted by director William Wyler.

A sad note in the "Ben-Hur" victory was the absence of producer Sam Zimbalist, who died after the film was made. The best picture award was accepted by his widow.

"Ben-Hur" won in all but one of the categories in which it was nominated. That one is significant-writing. Over the protests of Wyler, the Writers Guild of America gave sole writing credit to Karl Tunberg, though Christopher Fry, Gore Vidal and S. N. Behrman and other helped on the script.

ONLY FRY

Heston acknowledged only Fry among the writers in his acceptance speech.

Best song of the year was "High Hopes," from "A Hole in the Head." Its writers, James Van Heusen and Sammy Cahn, gave the most appreciated acceptance speech of the night: "Thank, and You."

"Black Orpheus," the bongo-beat product of France's new wave of bright young filmmakers, was named best foreign language film.

No one got greater applause than comedian Bob Hope, who finally got an award after all these years of complaining about the lack of one. He won the Jean Hersholt award for humanitarian service.

Burglary Suspect's Wife Gives Birth in Court

CHICAGO (UPI)—Mrs. Rita Eakes, 17, gave birth to a girl yesterday on a criminal court jurors' table while her husband was being arraigned in the next room on two burglary charges.

"Monday always is a busy day in court," an employee said.

30,000 Flooded Acres Drop Mississippi Level

CHICAGO (AP)—The Mississippi River showed signs of relenting temporarily Monday after punching through a levee into rich Illinois farmland. But the Missouri raged on.

By veering into 30,000 acres of bottom-land near Meyer, Ill., devastating cropland and routing livestock, the Mississippi slowly dropped, officials said, reassuring other communities downstream.

They stressed, however, that the respite might be brief and that another rise could begin after one or two days.

Hundreds of the 2,500 residents in Canton, Mo., fled Sunday, abandoning low-lying homes.

Clubs, Whips Used; Another Negro Dies

CAPETOWN (CP)—A Negro was killed and about 10 others injured in widely-separated clashes with police Monday as the South African government launched a campaign to get Negroes back on their jobs.

Reuters reported the man died in Clermont township outside Durban where club-wielding police charged a crowd of 3,000 who refused an order to go back to work. Several Negroes were injured.

In the nearby trouble spot of Nyanga township, a police sergeant opened fire at almost point-blank range into a Negro crowd, wounding five men.

TROUBLEMAKER

The shooting followed action by police with clubs against "troublemakers and open intimidators" in the township. A Negro woman and three men were taken to hospital with head injuries.

Police officials said the sergeant later used his pistol against an unruly crowd of Negroes who threatened to attack.

DRIVE OPENS

The violence came as the government opened a drive starting at dawn to get Negroes to end their stay-home campaign for greater civil rights.

Four air force planes flew over Clermont township and Cape Mammie, near Durban, and "bombed" the native settlements with 200,000 pink, green and yellow pamphlets warning the Negroes to maintain order.

BUSES STONED

But in S. J. Smith township outside Durban, none of 5,000 workers reported on the job Monday. Buses were stoned.

The Associated Press reported scores were injured by police clubs and gunfire Monday as authorities cracked down on Capetown area Negroes.

While the authorities declined to give a full account of what went on, it was clear that police had handed out rough treatment to all Negroes they found not working Monday.

RUBBER WHIPS

The editor of a Liberal party magazine, Contact, said he saw police using sjamboks (whips made of strips of rubber) on Negroes near Calderon Square, only a few blocks from the centre of Capetown.

At least 35 were reported wounded by gunfire. Hundreds were clubbed by police batons Monday.

A nurse at a hospital in the Nyanga Negro settlement said there were so many victims of beatings that she ran out of bandages.

EVERYBODY

"Police and army people seem to be beating up everybody," she reported by telephone. Headquarters of the Liberal party, an organization of whites and Negroes favoring conciliation between the races, received a stream of reports on raids throughout the area.

One informant telephoned that police had been beating up "almost every African they can see, and shooting at random."

To Visit Queen

Colorful welcome is planned in London today for arrival of French President Charles de Gaulle. Although he is officially visiting the Queen, de Gaulle is expected to press Prime Minister Macmillan for a greater share in Britain and United States atomic secrets.

Church Fails Negroes

CAPETOWN, South Africa (UPI)—Anglican archbishop Jost de Blank yesterday confirmed reports of growing anti-Christian feeling among Africans.

"I'm not surprised," the archbishop said.

"Explorer Stanley Livingstone promised commerce and Christianity to the Africans. They've got commerce, but they've not seen Christianity," he said.

"When I came here 24 years ago I looked for something which might enable a Christian to believe in apartheid," said the archbishop, an outspoken foe of South Africa's racial policies. "I now know there is no mitigating factor."

Police 'Protect'

Rule by Blacks Seen in Africa

JOHANNESBURG (AP)—External Affairs Minister Eric Louw charged Monday critics of his government would hand over South Africa to a "black proletariat" to destroy what the whites have built.

Louw assailed as hypocrisy in urging South Africa to the action of the United Nations Security Council Friday abolish its policy of apartheid or segregation.

Speaking to an audience that included many ambassadors at the opening of the government pavilion at Johannesburg's Union Exposition, Louw declared:

It's the Sin Not the Sum

VANCOUVER (CP)—It's the sin, not the sum, that counts.

Ralph Smillie, 48, was given a three-month jail sentence Monday for passing a bad cheque for $2,522 in payment for a used car.

David Goddard, 29, was jailed three months after admitting he passed a no-account cheque for $14 at a grocery market.

"The climax in the United Nations' incitement and interference in South African affairs was reached last week when the Security Council, in contravention of its own charter, took it upon itself to pass judgment on South Africa."

"One marvels at the blatant hypocrisy of the many countries that lodge complaints against South Africa." He said these included Communist and non-white countries.

"We have a foretaste of what would then happen when we see the ruins of churches, schools and even clinics which were erected for the benefit of the Bantu (Negro) people and burned down last week."

"Then there is also another side to the picture as well. The great bulk of the Bantu are law-abiding, decent people. That is why hundreds are returning to the Bantu reserves."

"When the shock of these happenings of the last two weeks has passed, they will not be so easily swayed by agitators, Bantu or white."

"They will not be cowed by gangster organizations. They must be made to realize that the white man's police force is there to protect them."
